'For the Richness of Thy Many Gifts, We Give Thanks'

IN HOMES THROUGHOUT AMERICA TODAY, thoughtful people will pause to give humble thanks for the treasures that God has bestowed upon a land of rich harvests and cherished freedoms. And the true spirit of the Thanksgiving season seems to be typified by the Rev and Mrs. W. S. Alexander, 124 W. Temple St., above, who express their heartfelt gratitude in a traditionally American way. Mr. Alexander is a retired Methodist minister.

Nation Observes Thanksgiving Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

America's millions—with many, many things to be grateful for—celebrate Thanksgiving Day today with traditional church going, feasting, football games and parades. Many had one eye on the turkey and the other on events in Europe and the Middle East.

Prayers of thanks for past blessings mingle with prayers that there shall be no more war and that the downtrodden peoples of the world shall win their freedom.

Special church services, many of them taking into account the meagre blessings in other lands, were planned throughout the nation.

The weather forecast for most of the nation is fair and cold.

Family reunions and gatherings of old friends around the festive board were abundant.

Railroads and airlines reported heavy travel.

Today was the first Thanksgiving Day for the initial group of Hungarian refugees from the current Communist terror. Sixty of them landed Wednesday at an Air Force base in New Jersey and more are due tonight.

HOLIDAY MENUS were prepared in hospitals, jails and other public institutions.

Servicemen and women at home and abroad also feasted, with turkey tops on the menu.

For many of the unfortunate, from New York's Bowery to skid rows far away, there is free turkey and trimmings at shelters.

In Washington, diplomats from American republics are to be among worshippers at the 47th annual Pan-American Mass at St. Patrick's church.

Fifty residents of Plymouth, Mass., where the first Thanksgiving Day was observed, wear Pilgrim dress to walk behind a drummer up Cole's Hill to attend services at First church.

Soviet Bloc Solid Against U. N. Demands

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union and its puppet Hungarian government showed no sign today of complying with a massive new U. N. appeal for on-the-spot investigation of reported deportations from the rebellious East European satellite.

Voting 57-8, the General Assembly Wednesday night approved an Asian resolution asking Hungary to admit U. N. observers to investigate the reports of the deportations which both the Soviet Union and the Red Budapest regime denied were taking place.

Both Russia and Hungary had rejected an earlier assembly request for admission of U. N. observers to investigate the general situation in Hungary. The Communists contended the rebellion is an internal affair.

The assembly also adopted, 55-10, a Cuban resolution urging the Soviet and Hungarian governments to cease deportation of Hungarian citizens and return those already deported.

SOVIET FOREIGN Minister Dmitri T. Shepilov told the assembly there was no truth whatever to the reports that rebels were being shipped from Hungary to Russia. He did not comment on the Asian resolution asking for an investigation.

The Asian resolution was sponsored by India, Indonesia and Ceylon. Other neutral Asian nations which previously tried to avoid taking a stand on the Hungarian situation lined up to support the resolution.

Some delegates had hoped this switch by the uncommitted Asians might influence the Soviet Union to withdraw its objections to U.N. observers. But there was no sign of any Russian backdown.

Stage Set for Christmas Shoppers

Santa Arrives Here Saturday

This is Thanksgiving Day and, with Christmas only a little more than four weeks away, the holiday shopping season is to be formally opened in Washington C. H. Saturday.

Santa Claus is to come in that morning at 10 o'clock by helicopter and set up headquarters here. Plans call for him to drop down on Main St., between Court and Market Sts., in his great iron bird instead of the sleigh drawn by eight tiny reindeer.

That part of Main St. is to be cleared and blocked to traffic; the sidewalks are to be roped off, too, until the whirling propellers of Santa's modern vehicle have stopped.

Santa is to take his place immediately on a flatbed wagon, where he will meet and talk with the youngsters. He also will have a treat of mixed hard candy from Art's Candy Co. plant recently opened on Oakland Ave.

* * *

WASHINGTON C. H. will be all decked out in its colorful Christmas fine for the coming of Santa and the opening of the shopping season.

The 65-foot tall evergreen tree which has been set on the south lawn at the Courthouse will be sparkling with hundreds of varicolored lights and the Nativity scene on the east side of the lawn will be all in place.

John Laufer, Bloomingburg electrician, had planned to string the lights on the tree Wednesday and the Fayette Garden Club had expected to put the straw in the stable of the Nativity scene and arrange the figures there before Thanksgiving Day, but the rain, wind and low temperatures forced a postponement. The Jaycees had brought the figures for the Nativity scene and built the stable over the weekend, but wind Tuesday night scattered the pieces.

If things go according to plan, and the weather does not interfere, these tasks and the decorating of the streets in the business section will be completed Friday.

* * *

WHEN IT ALL is completed, Court St. will be lighted by garlands of greenery and colored lights above the street. At the intersections of Court St. and North, Fayette and Main Sts. the strands of lighted greenery are to be strung above all four crossings, forming a square at each intersection.

On Main and Fayette Sts., between Market and East Sts., a decorated 6-foot evergreen tree is to be fastened to each of the light standards on both sides of the street 8 feet above the ground.

The decorations on Main and Fayette Sts. are something new this year. For several years, most of the Christmas decorations have been along Court St.

Arrangements have been made to broadcast Christmas music from the Courthouse belfrey during the afternoon and on Friday and Saturday nights from now until Christmas. The sound equipment was set up by Ray Anderson, Miss Mildred Smith, the county court reporter, is to handle the record and tape player in her office in the courthouse during the afternoons and William Stoughton, manager of the Chamber of Commerce at nights.

* * *

ARRANGEMENTS have been made with the American Legion Auxiliary Highway Patrol to provide a squad of 10 or 12 members under Capt. Robert Jefferson to keep the order Saturday among the eager youngsters waiting to see Santa and hold the lines along the sidewalk and a safe distance around the helicopter.

The helicopter is to remain at the center of activities for about 20 minutes before it takes off, leaving Santa behind.

Just so time won't drag and to entertain the holiday-minded crowds, the Junior High School band is to play on the west steps of the courthouse for a half hour before the schedule arrival of Santa Claus.

* * *

THE WHOLE season-opening celebration and the Yuletide decorations were arranged by the Retail Merchants Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Many of the stores are making their first announcement of Christmas merchandise in today's issue of the Record-Herald.

The committee also has set up a schedule of hours for the shopping season which is to be followed at most of the stores. They are to remain open from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. every Friday and Saturday from now until Christmas and the majority of them are to observe the 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. hours for the entire week preceding Christmas. Virtually all of them are to close at 5 p. m. Christmas Eve.

News Analyst Says Let's Not Brood About Uneasy World on This Holiday

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP)—Oh, shucks. This is Thanksgiving. Let's not brood about the world situation, dismal though it is. Let's just lean back, try to digest the turkey, wiggle our toes and tell stories.

Like the one about the exclusive interview I had with Adlai Stevenson's dog.

It was at the height of the election campaign. A lot of us were out in Chicago. One of the wire service photographers got a tip—which, bless his heart, he passed along to me—that the Democratic nominee for president was about to pose for a temporarily off-the-record picture.

Well, Stevenson's most casual words had news value in those days. So, on the chance of catching a few, off I went to Libertyville, Ill., where the "Gov.," as his girl secretaries call him, was in residence.

"Big exclusive story," I kept telling myself.

And of course by the time I got there May Craig of the Portland Maine Press-Herald and other papers had already arrived. Doubtless you know Mrs. Craig from her television appearances.

It turned out that the picture to be taken was the candidate with this year's polio poster girl, a button-cute 4-year-old named Marlene Olsen, from Boston.

There was no immediate sign of the candidate.

So we milled about, as you do mill about during campaign trips. Playing with Marlene. Trying to help her father, an Air Force captain, keep the kid's hair combed. That sort of thing.

We surveyed the farm. Nice place. Sizable gray house with yellow awnings. Nothing like as elaborate as the Gettysburg, Pa., establishment of the winning presidential candidate, but will do.

Presently the Stevenson dog appeared. He is an elderly Dalmation named King Arthur, or "Artie" for short. I am a dog man and I approached Artie. He would have nothing to do with me—or with anybody. else.

Then there turned up a Stevenson press aide, sore as blazes that we were out there

His point was that the polio people's picture wasn't for release until Nov. 19. We said we'd go along with that. He said he was afraid of a slipup. We pointed out that slipups were nothing new in this campaign.

Marlene was getting a bit tired and fussy at this point.

So were the rest of us.

Stevenson eventually saved the situation by coming out and posing for photographs. Marlene was favorably impressed by him, but of course she can't vote.

We chatted with the candidate and he was most informative.

He told us it sure is a problem to get all those leaves raked up.

Then he strolled off with Marlene to show her his sheep.

I don't know Mrs. Craig's reaction but I was wondering at this point how in the name of Heaven I was going to justify this trip on my expense account.

Artie came to the rescue.

He finally dropped his guard, came over to me and held up his muzzle to be stroked.

"Rrrrrf," he said.

And, by golly, he didn't put it off the record.

100 Kiss Bride, Fear Diphtheria

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona Health Commissioner Clarence G. Salsbury is trying to round up more than 100 persons for immunization against diphtheria.

Salsbury said they all attended a Phoenix wedding Sunday. All kissed the happy bride. Shortly after the reception, the bride went home to mother. Cause: A sore throat and 104-degree temperature. Diagnosis: Diphtheria.

The health commissioner said the bride has been isolated at home. The glum groom has returned to bachelor's quarters.

City School Board President Cites Reasons for Immediate Bond Action

The president of the Washington C. H. Board of Education has listed five reasons why it is proceeding immediately to sell the entire $645,000 worth of bonds for school construction and improvement immediately to seel the entire $645,000 worth of bonds for school construction and improvement authorized by the voters Nov. 6.

The five reasons are incorporated in a statement issued by Robert Terhune, to clarify the board's stand in view of a policy a resolution of Oct. 15 which said in part:

"If a Citizens Committee, as provided for in Revised Section 3311.30, is declared necessary by the court, the Washington C. H. Board of Education will issue only those bonds. . . .for construction of the most urgent part of the over-all building program, and . . . .will hold the remainder of the bonds until the Citizens Committee makes its recommendations."

It was pointed out at that time that the board has the legal power to withhold the issuance of bonds approved by the electorate for a period of not to exceed five years.

* * *

ON MONDAY NIGHT of this week, the board moved for the immediate sale of the bonds.

In response to questions as to how the board reconciled its action Monday with its previously stated policy regarding the court's decision on a Citizen Committee, Terhune issued this statement:

"The City Board of Education has decided to issue all the bonds authorized in the election on Nov. 6 for the following reasons:

"1. Due to the overcrowding in the buildings, necessitating the use of rental and other emergency classrooms, and the need next fall for classrooms in addition to the emergency rooms now being used, it was deemed urgent that the program be started as soon as possible;

"2. Advice from the architect that a lower construction cost can be secured when all projects are let at the same time, and since the completion of the total proposed program is dependant upon the wise expenditure of funds, it was decided to proceed with the whole program simultaneously for the sake of economy.

"3. Because construction bids called for in the spring are usually lower than those later in the year, plus the possibility of a price increase in steel and other building materials, served as factors in bringing the board to its decision to start as soon as possible;

"4. Because the decision of the judge on the legal status of a Citizens Committee may be delayed several months, and the WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower arranged to attend Thanksgiving Day services today, and to have a family turkey dinner at the home of their son and his family.

The chief executive and his wife were to drive from services at the National Presbyterian church to the residence of their son and daughter-in-law, Army Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, at Ft. Belvoir, Va., 12 miles away.

Troop Pull-Out From Egypt Eyed

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Diplomats cast a wary eye today at reports Britain, France and Israel are withdrawing some of their troops from Egypt.

Israel said there already had been a withdrawal of her forces "for varying distances along the entire Egyptian front." The Israelis announced they would pull out of Egypt when the U. N. insures Israel against "the threat of attack, and against acts of belligerency by land or sea."

Britain reportedly informed U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold she was pulling a battalion out of Port Said as a token movement. It was said the British were considering a total withdrawal in about four weeks.

France reportedly advised Hammarskjold she has pulled out a third of her invasion forces. There was no indication, however, how many troops the French had landed in Egypt originally.

All three nations sent notes to Hammarskjold in reply to his demands for information on their compliance with the General Assembly resolution calling for withdrawal of their forces from Egypt.

* * *

THE ISRAELI note was made public Wednesday night and Hammarskjold was expected to publish the others today.

Observers said the replies of the three powers might have been speeded up by mounting American pressure and Hammarskjold's insistence that delay in evacuation was hindering the work of the U. N. police force.

Israel in effect said she expected the U.N. police force to assure her shipping passage through the Suez Canal and the Red Sea Gulf of Aqaba, which Egypt had stopped in defiance of U.N. directives.

Mark Heads Tri-County Realty Board

Tom Mark, Washington C. H. realtor, was elected 1957 president of the Tri - County Real Estate Board at a dinner meeting of the group held in Hillsboro Wednesday night.

Mark succeeds Charles Ault, Wilmington, as head of the association which includes members from Fayette, Highland and Clinton counties.

Gordon Tice, Wilmington, was named vice president of the board, and Wilfred Faul, Hillsboro, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

The group, which will hold its December meeting in Leesburg, conducted a question-and-answer session on real estate problems after the election.

"For these reasons, the city Board of Education has decided to issue all of the bonds authorized by 60.8 per cent of the electorate of Washington C. H. on Nov. 6."

THE BOARD, by resolution, said sealed bids on the bonds will be received until noon of Dec. 13. (This date was changed from the Dec. 5 date in the original resolution and legal notice.)

A special meeting of the board has been set for noon of Dec. 13, the day the bids are opened.

A taxpayers' suit, asking formation of a Citizens Committee, was filed in Probate Court here last May 4, but there has been no final decision by Judge John H. Houston of Brown County who was assigned to the case.

Defendants in the suit are the Fayette County and Washington C. H. boards of education, and the Miami Trace, Bloomingburg, Paint and Jefferson district boards.

What effect disposition of the case may have on the future of the city's building program or the $1,652,500 Miami Trace proposal for construction of a new high school and improvement of existing buildings (also approved at the November election) is only conjectural at this time.

Fayette County Gets Light Snow

Just a bit of snow covered the ground in Fayette County early Thanksgiving Day morning as the temperature dropped to 23 degrees at 8 a. m.

The temperature had gone as high as 60 degrees on Wednesday. On Thanksgiving Day a year ago, the temperature never got below 32 degrees.

The snowfall was light, but steady Thursday morning. Weather observer Coyt A. Stookey pointed out that the temperature was just right for a bigger snow.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohioans had a white Thanksgiving in store, that is, if the snow sticks.

The weatherman early today reported snow flurries throughout most of the state—Akron, Canton, Toledo, Dayton, Cincinnati, Zanesville, Marietta and Columbus.

High winds accompanied the snow, the highest reported being 30-40 m.p.h. in Columbus.

The snow was expected to be heavy along the shores of Lake Erie, and temperatures tonight were to drop to 12-22 degrees.

John D. Benefield, 52, Ft. Payne, Ala., was charged with having no license plates and no proof of ownership for the 1950 Pontiac he was driving or the 1949 Chevrolet he was towing when he was picked up by police Wednesday. He was released under $50 bond.

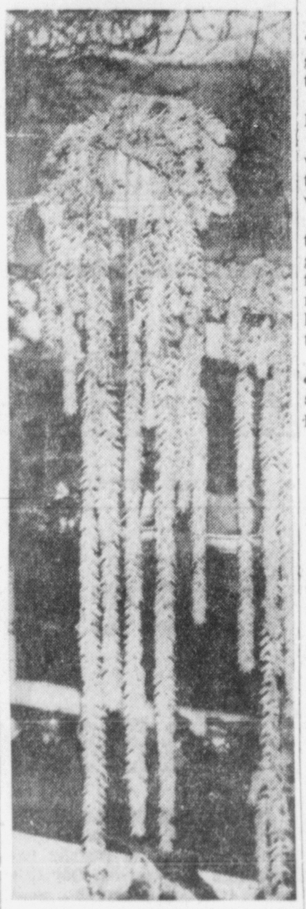
Yes, Junior, 'Bananas' Grow in Fayette County



'BANANA CACTUS' HAS TROPICAL LOOK

"Yes, We Have No Bananas?"

It may surprise you to know that "bananas," long strings of them, grow right here in this community.

Mrs. Leonard Miller, Prairie Rd., has a window full of them.

However, these bananas are on what is known as a "banana cactus" — a variety which is somewhat rare in this area— or is it?

The cactus gets its name from the fact that long ropes of little green banana shaped fruits hang from the main plant, some of these ropes being four feet or more in length, and composed of scores of the little "bananas."

Each fruit, when pulled off and one end stuck in the ground, soon sprouts roots and another cactus plant has been started.

A committee appointed to publish a monthly bulletin includes Mary Anne Hackett, Millie Everhart, Rosalyn Marting, Kay Rhoades, Charlotte Aills, Kristin Himmelspach, Joy Lucas and Jowanda Wilson.

Another group will be planning a panel discussion about library work. They are Linda Rice, Jane Davis, Bonnie Goolsby, Jean Gilmore, Sharon Wallingsford, Diana Thomas, Carol Pitzer, Barbara Penrod, Millie Everhart and Beverly Swackhammer.

Former WCH Teacher Dies Unexpectedly

Mrs. Percy B. Smith, 74, a native of Washington C. H., died unexpectedly in Pinkneyville, Ill., hospital at 9:15 p. m. Wednesday, a short time after she had entered the hospital.

Mrs. Smith, the former Gertrude Veail, taught school here for many years. Miss Vera Veail, 131 N. North St., is her only sister and close relative here. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Veail.

She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Daniel Tuttle of Hawaii and two grandchildren. Her daughter was visiting her parents when her mother died.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, but the service will be held in Pinkneyville. Mrs. Smith had lived in Pinkneyville for many years.

Miss Vera Veail left for Pinkneyville Thursday morning by plane from Columbus.

Boost Pondered

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Division of Insurance says it will decide within a week whether Central Hospital Service (Blue Cross) should raise rates.

The service wants to increase from $4.50 to $5.20 a month the rate charges for the 30-day standard family policy and a $75 limit to maternity hospitalization.

Eden Leaving For Vacation On Island

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Eden, target of many-sided criticism in the Suez Canal dispute, is moving farther out of the current crisis picture. On the recommendation of his doctors, he flies to Jamaica Friday to spend three weeks in the Caribbean sun.

Richard A. Butler, government leader in the House of Commons, has been designated acting prime minister during Eden's absence. Butler has been mentioned as a possible successor to Eden.

Eden, 59, announced Monday he was withdrawing from all public engagements on the advice of his doctor.

Dr. Horace Evans, Eden's family physician, said the prime minister is suffering from severe overstrain. Presumably Eden's condition resulted from his round-the-clock direction of Britain's Middle East policy and his vigorous defense of his decision to send British troops into Egypt.

An Eden associate said earlier the prime minister had not suffered a recurrence of his critical 1953 illness but is "utterly exhausted." Eden underwent three operations in 1953 after being stricken by a liver ailment. He became prime minister in April, 1955. The load of that office increased greatly after Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal.

White House Mum On New Envoy for Italian Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is maintaining silence on appointment of a new ambassador to Italy, although the choice of James David Zellerbach of San Francisco was all but formally confirmed.

Italian President Gronchi announced in Rome that he had told the White House Zellerbach was acceptable. The Foreign Office in Rome said President Eisenhower asked for such approval.

Even before the Rome disclosure, it had been widely reported that Eisenhower would appoint Zellerbach to the diplomatic post being vacated by Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce. She resigned Monday because of poor health.

In San Francisco, Zellerbach, 64, resigned this week as president of the Crown-Zellerbach Corp., manufacturers of paper products. He was named chairman of the board.

Mark Heads Tri-County Realty Board

Tom Mark, Washington C. H. realtor, was elected 1957 president of the Tri - County Real Estate Board at a dinner meeting of the group held in Hillsboro Wednesday night.

Mark succeeds Charles Ault, Wilmington, as head of the association which includes members from Fayette, Highland and Clinton counties.

Gordon Tice, Wilmington, was named vice president of the board, and Wilfred Faul, Hillsboro, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

The group, which will hold its December meeting in Leesburg, conducted a question-and-answer session on real estate problems after the election.

need for classrooms is urgent;

"5. If and when the court holds a Citizens Committee necessary, the board will participate."

"For these reasons, the city Board of Education has decided to issue all of the bonds authorized by 60.8 per cent of the electorate of Washington C. H. on Nov. 6."

* * *

THE BOARD, by resolution, said sealed bids on the bonds will be received until noon of Dec. 13. (This date was changed from the Dec. 5 date in the original resolution and legal notice.)

A special meeting of the board has been set for noon of Dec. 13, the day the bids are opened.

A taxpayers' suit, asking formation of a Citizens Committee, was filed in Probate Court here last May 4, but there has been no final decision by Judge John H. Houston of Brown County who was assigned to the case.

Defendants in the suit are the Fayette County and Washington C. H. boards of education, and the Miami Trace, Bloomingburg, Paint and Jefferson district boards.

What effect disposition of the case may have on the future of the city's building program or the $1,652,500 Miami Trace proposal for construction of a new high school and improvement of existing buildings (also approved at the November election) is only conjectural at this time.

Fayette County Gets Light Snow

Plush Motel Trend Invades Big Cities

A brash newcomer to the midwestern metropolis, this plush motel, Chicago's Sands, has the 1,000-room very fashionable Edgewater Beach hotel as a backdrop!

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER

CHICAGO — Motels which got their start in the early 1930s when majestic auto courts began appearing throughout the southwest, now are arriving in the biggest cities where the newest has just made its audacious appearance here right next door to one of the nation's best known major hotels.

The Sands, a luxury motel, has just opened 100 of its units in the very shadow of the famous Edgewater Beach hotel on this city's Lake Shore Drive.

By next summer, 65 more units will be operating in the Sands two - level court, together with a meeting hall for conventions and a colorful swimming pool and cabana club.

It is one of four such new developments in the heart of Chicago instead of on the outskirts, which city planners believe signalize a trend that may justify changing the zoning laws to permit yet more of the low, sprawling layouts to be built as an answer to a hotel room shortage that has worried the city.

* * *

THE OTHER similar developments include a motel next to Midway airport, the nation's busiest field; a counterpart of the Sands situated about as far south of the downtown Loop as it is north, in the neighborhood of the University of Chicago; and a plus-ultra motel being built on the South Shore Drive, near where the Indiana Turnpike debouches into the city.

The large, traditional-type hotels might be worried at the competition if they were not themselves bursting at the seams with overcrowded guest lists so that they welcome the added rooms as much as anyone else.

Besides it will take a long time and many new courts for the motels to aggregate enough rooms to challenge the hotels. For example, the $1,500,000 Sands will have 165 units when completed, as compared with the 1,000 rooms in the adjacent Edgewater Beach.

* * *

CHICAGO has been so worried over a lack of sufficient rooms to accommodate 16 million annual visitors, including 1,250,000 convention and trade show participants, that Mayor Richard J. Daley has a top - flight management consultant firm working on the problem.

Its survey has revealed that the city's 53 major hotels have only 33,000 transient units, of which less than 11,000 can be classed as first rate.

No new hotels have been built in the Chicagoland area for nearly 30 years, and none currently is scheduled, apparently for lack of suitable real estate and high building costs

Motels then loom as the answer for Chicago, as they have for countless smaller cities from coast to coast.

Although the metropolitan motel is far plushier than its cousins on the outskirts, the principle is the same. They are situated on this city's famous Outer drive, which to be sure is one of the world's most famous boulevards, but also is U. S. highways 41 and 42 spanning the nation.

* * *

THEIR big attraction for many tourists is the proximity of the automobile to the motel unit, saving a long trek with luggage when you want to make an early start on the highway the next morning.

In the super - motel like the Sands, this characteristic of all motels still predominates, even though its units are two - level, and the accessory accommodations of swimming pool and restaurant are an encouragement to less nomadic guests.

Since the first units of the Sands were opened a few months ago, 7,000 guests already have been accommodated, more than half of whom lived 400 or more miles from Chicago.

Although its neighborhood is the fashionable north side of Chicago, with the exclusive Saddle and Cycle Club next door to the east, there were no zoning protests. The motel seems to be welcome as a new adjunct of the big city.

Ohio A-Energy Council Sets News Screen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Advisory Council on Atomic Energy has set up a process for screening news of its activities through the governor and an executive committee.

"No public pronouncement shall be released to the press until approved by the executive committee and submitted to the governor for his review," a council statement said.

The organization, designed to promote development of the economic and social potential of atomic energy, held its first meeting here Tuesday attended by about 80 state officials and representative citizens.

"Reports, excerpts and recommendations are not to be released by any study group or any individual," the policy statement said. "The executive committee has the sole authority to formulate the policies which will guide the study group work. The committee will submit to the governor recommendations approved by the committee."

Dr. Harold Yochum, president of Capital University here, heads the executive committee which will meet quarterly.

Board and Room — By Gene Ahern

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 23, brought to this country in my childhood, by an aunt, after my parents were killed in the late war. Aunt Maud is very kind, but definitely old school, so I can't turn to her with my problem.

Not only because of my early history, but also because I was the unfortunate loser in a love affair three years ago, I wasn't able to trust anyone until I met John—I'll call him—last Spring.

John is 26, with a rather important Army commission. He seemed good, sympathetic, and above all, honest and sincere. Eventually I put all my faith in him—completely won when he went along with my intention to keep our relationship respectable.

He then proposed marriage and I accepted, but reminded him that he was free to change his mind at any time, if he ever doubted that I could make him happy.

What followed is terribly confusing. He became very vague about himself and the future, and especially avoided the subject of us, although still insisting that he loved me more than he'd ever loved anyone. Also he began to drink heavily, off and on. I've never been able to get any explanation for his performance. Nor could I ever get him to admit that we were through.

I haven't seen him for the past month, and I hear he's been drinking and acting an absolute fool, not wanting to discuss what's on his mind. This has hurt me deeply, but I feel that his problem is greater than my sorrow, and I wouldn't want to let him down if there is anything I can do.

P. C.

DEAR P. C.: In the light of present-day understanding of the alcoholic personality, it appears that your friend John is giving a routine performance as an alcoholic on the downgrade.

His psychological tailspin after you had agreed to marry him is simply part of a predictable pattern of panic, at the prospect of being "found out" as totally inadequate in a scheduled intimate partnership.

The primary failure of the alcoholic addict will be found in the theater of his human relations, says Dr. David J. Myerson. His drinking is a secondary affliction. One might describe it as a side-line (or substitute) field of trouble, into which he plunges in search of excuse, as it were, for not facing his basic emotional distortions and putting them straight.

The periodical quotes Dr. Myerson as saying: "In the ordinary give-and-take of normal human relations, these men cannot give. They can only take, from a supplier or a protector—who is usually a woman."

As a cloak for their inability to give, they place themselves over and over again in situations where only rejection (from human ties) can result, the doctor explains. Thus they become involved in what appears to be an endless cycle (or "vicious circle") of drinking sprees and wrecked relationships.

You can't save him; that's his job. My advice is, get psychiatric help in correcting your neurotic affinity for defeat in love.

Plush Motel Trend Invades Big Cities

A brash newcomer to the midwestern metropolis, this plush motel, Chicago's Sands, has the 1,000-room very fashionable Edgewater Beach hotel as a backdrop!

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER

CHICAGO — Motels which got their start in the early 1930s when majestic auto courts began appearing throughout the southwest, now are arriving in the biggest cities where the newest has just made its audacious appearance here right next door to one of the nation's best known major hotels.

The Sands, a luxury motel, has just opened 100 of its units in the very shadow of the famous Edgewater Beach hotel on this city's Lake Shore Drive.

By next summer, 65 more units will be operating in the Sands two - level court, together with a meeting hall for conventions and a colorful swimming pool and cabana club.

It is one of four such new developments in the heart of Chicago instead of on the outskirts, which city planners believe signalize a trend that may justify changing the zoning laws to permit yet more of the low, sprawling layouts to be built as an answer to a hotel room shortage that has worried the city.

* * *

THE OTHER similar developments include a motel next to Midway airport, the nation's busiest field; a counterpart of the Sands situated about as far south of the downtown Loop as it is north, in the neighborhood of the University of Chicago; and a plus-ultra motel being built on the South Shore Drive, near where the Indiana Turnpike debouches into the city.

The large, traditional-type hotels might be worried at the competition if they were not themselves bursting at the seams with overcrowded guest lists so that they welcome the added rooms as much as anyone else.

Besides it will take a long time and many new courts for the motels to aggregate enough rooms to challenge the hotels. For example, the $1,500,000 Sands will have 165 units when completed, as compared with the 1,000 rooms in the adjacent Edgewater Beach.

* * *

CHICAGO has been so worried over a lack of sufficient rooms to accommodate 16 million annual visitors, including 1,250,000 convention and trade show participants, that Mayor Richard J. Daley has a top - flight management consultant firm working on the problem.

Its survey has revealed that the city's 53 major hotels have only 33,000 transient units, of which less than 11,000 can be classed as first rate.

No new hotels have been built in the Chicagoland area for nearly 30 years, and none currently is scheduled, apparently for lack of suitable real estate and high building costs

Motels then loom as the answer for Chicago, as they have for countless smaller cities from coast to coast.

Although the metropolitan motel is far plushier than its cousins on the outskirts, the principle is the same. They are situated on this city's famous Outer drive, which to be sure is one of the world's most famous boulevards, but also is U. S. highways 41 and 42 spanning the nation.

* * *

THEIR big attraction for many tourists is the proximity of the automobile to the motel unit, saving a long trek with luggage when you want to make an early start on the highway the next morning.

In the super - motel like the Sands, this characteristic of all motels still predominates, even though its units are two - level, and the accessory accommodations of swimming pool and restaurant are an encouragement to less nomadic guests.

Since the first units of the Sands were opened a few months ago, 7,000 guests already have been accommodated, more than half of whom lived 400 or more miles from Chicago.

Although its neighborhood is the fashionable north side of Chicago, with the exclusive Saddle and Cycle Club next door to the east, there were no zoning protests. The motel seems to be welcome as a new adjunct of the big city.

Ohio A-Energy Council Sets News Screen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Advisory Council on Atomic Energy has set up a process for screening news of its activities through the governor and an executive committee.

"No public pronouncement shall be released to the press until approved by the executive committee and submitted to the governor for his review," a council statement said.

The organization, designed to promote development of the economic and social potential of atomic energy, held its first meeting here Tuesday attended by about 80 state officials and representative citizens.

"Reports, excerpts and recommendations are not to be released by any study group or any individual," the policy statement said. "The executive committee has the sole authority to formulate the policies which will guide the study group work. The committee will submit to the governor recommendations approved by the committee."

Dr. Harold Yochum, president of Capital University here, heads the executive committee which will meet quarterly.

Board and Room — By Gene Ahern

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 23, brought to this country in my childhood, by an aunt, after my parents were killed in the late war. Aunt Maud is very kind, but definitely old school, so I can't turn to her with my problem.

Not only because of my early history, but also because I was the unfortunate loser in a love affair three years ago, I wasn't able to trust anyone until I met John—I'll call him—last Spring.

John is 26, with a rather important Army commission. He seemed good, sympathetic, and above all, honest and sincere. Eventually I put all my faith in him—completely won when he went along with my intention to keep our relationship respectable.

He then proposed marriage and I accepted, but reminded him that he was free to change his mind at any time, if he ever doubted that I could make him happy.

What followed is terribly confusing. He became very vague about himself and the future, and especially avoided the subject of us, although still insisting that he loved me more than he'd ever loved anyone. Also he began to drink heavily, off and on. I've never been able to get any explanation for his performance. Nor could I ever get him to admit that we were through.

I haven't seen him for the past month, and I hear he's been drinking and acting an absolute fool, not wanting to discuss what's on his mind. This has hurt me deeply, but I feel that his problem is greater than my sorrow, and I wouldn't want to let him down if there is anything I can do.

P. C.

DEAR P. C.: In the light of present-day understanding of the alcoholic personality, it appears that your friend John is giving a routine performance as an alcoholic on the downgrade.

His psychological tailspin after you had agreed to marry him is simply part of a predictable pattern of panic, at the prospect of being "found out" as totally inadequate in a scheduled intimate partnership.

A recent issue of a health quarterly, devoted to popular articles on specialist findings, presents a scientific new look at the alcoholic personality. The text is based on a specialist's digets of his three-years' study of the alcoholic's problems.

The primary failure of the alcoholic addict will be found in the theater of his human relations, says Dr. David J. Myerson. His drinking is a secondary affliction. For What Should We Give Thanks?

So frequently on Thanksgiving the observance of this day is marked as merely another pleasant holiday, or a big feast day, that its true meaning is lost upon far too many people.

If we are called upon to express something appropriate on Thanksgiving, so often the response is made up of trite sayings which appear little more than lip service lacking in any "down deep" feeling.

There is really so much for which most of here in this nation should be humbly and devoutly grateful, including the fact that we are free and independent in this time of world turbulence, stress and in some places almost complete hopelessness.

For example today how would we feel if we lived in Hungary, suffering and starving under the brutal heel of Soviet Russia's domination, with families and friends with whom we had been associated being beaten into submission, murdered by guns of ruthless invaders or herded toward Siberian labor camps?

Maybe we may think we may not have ample money; maybe we have to work for a bare living, but we still are free to fight our way to better things, if we have it in us to do so.

Meantime we can enjoy many things for which we should give thanks; things such as were brought out in this week's Rotary Ginger Snap, a little publication carring a message to Rotarians of this community, which said:

"For what should men give thanks? For the simple blessings of the day; for the golden laughter of a child; for grass and trees, water and sunshine; the soft tumult of the falling leaves, and the friendly bark of a dog.

"For neighbors and friends and strangers, who pause in a teeming, turbulent highway to bestow acts of kindness.

"For the calm of the night, and a star-filled sky to light the dark way. For the warm firesides and chill shadows. For the smile of a stranger, to remind us to smile again.

"For the scientist's impenetrable mysteries; for all who mobilize for human needs and happiness.

"For all these, and the countless others, let us give thanks."

Schizophrenia Nips Youths

By Hal Boyle

That schizophrenia, the most widespread mental ailment, strikes often in families with four or more children, and is more likely to develop in the younger than the older children.

That even more significant in the schizophrenia picture is the fact that 40 per cent of its victims are people who, before the age of 15, were deprived of a mother or father, whether by death, desertion, divorce or separation.

That a carpet sweeper manufacturer has started a national campaign to get an 8-hour work day for housewives. The reaction of the average husband: "What wife will stand for working that long?"

That laboratory dogs, subjected to periods of alternate overeating and reducing, developed high blood pressure. Human hypertension, doctors feel, may result from these same dietary errors.

That when Congress is in session, milk consumption in Washington, D. C., and adjoining communities, goes up 20,000 quarts daily. Your guess as to why is as good as mine.

That many devout people do not know that the word with which they end their prayers—"amen"—has a literal meaning . . which is, "so let it be."

That most pawnbrokers have charged the same interest rate on loans—17 per cent—since the 17th century.

That scientists have found they can make a normal cell cancerous by cutting down on its oxygen supply.

That you may think you can shake off a cold in a couple of days, but your nose actually doesn't get back to normal for a full three weeks.

That executives estimate 500,000 new salesmen will be needed to keep the present business boom going in 1957 and they hope to draft many of them from the nation's farm youth.

That Elvis Presley, who has earned $1 million in the first year he was able to vote, may have made more money faster than any young entertainment star in history. It took five years for an earlier bobby sox idol, Frank Sinatra, to rise from a $15 a week singing waiter in 1938 to a $25,000 a week star in 1943.

That of the 2,200 accidental deaths by firearms in the United States last year the largest victim group consisted of children between 2 and 14 years old.

That fires killed 6,500 Americans in 1955, and a lot of them were smokers who lit a last cigarette in bed just before dozing off.

That you can get rabies not from mad dogs but from the bite of any mammal, excluding possibly the whale, but not excluding a mother-in-law.

Where Is the Logic

By George Sokolsky

The Suez war occurred during the last week of the presidential campaign and therefore was an embarrassment to all those who were engaged in that canvass on either side.

It is now obvious that it could not have been postponed because Nasser was organizing a military campaign against Israel which could only have been defeated by Israel taking the offensive.

The issue of aggression then resolves itself almost pathologically into the question of whether the patient is killed by a lethal weapon or is bled to death slowly. That is what happened to Israel which faced utter annihilation at the hands of Nasser. The choking process was actually in operation when the Israeli army under Gen. Moshe Dayan startled the world by a 110-mile uninterrupted march toward the Suez Canal in one day.

Had Nasser any kind of an army, he could have delayed or arrested that march. Where were the airplanes, the tanks, the arms which the Russians gave him? Of course, the answer to that must be that behind each weapon is a man and if men have no will to fight, a war can be lost by the best supplied of nations.

But there is another question that raises itself all the time: where were the other Arab countries? Not one of them went to the support of Nasser immediately. As long as he was choking Israel, Syria and Saudi Arabia applauded him and Jordan squeaked its reticent approval. The Arab nations acted only after they discovered that Nasser had not been destroyed, as they undoubtedly expected him to be.

The question arises: What is aggression? For instance is Soviet Russia an aggressor in Hungary? Who can say, no, to that? But the question is fraught with great danger because if a cease-fire order is filed against Soviet Russia, that country might take an antagonistic view of such a resolution.

After all, it was Soviet Russia that boycotted the United Nations for a period and it was because of that boycott that the United States was able to get the Security Council to accept the Korean war as a United Nations police action.

The British and French had no such advantage; they could not foist their police action on the United Nations, although the United Nations has now taken over this task but as a direct attack on Great Britain and France which did not happen when the United States went into Korea.

Nevertheless if the law is the law and the law is to be applied without prejudice to the strong and to the weak, then the same cease-fire order that the United Nations applied to Israel, Great Britain and France should apply to Soviet Russia in Hungary.

It is not understandable why an exception is made of Soviet Russia, which is, apparently free to butcher the Hungarians while Israel is not free even to defend itself against the Fedayeen, Nasser's commandos who have been molesting their neighbors for eight long years.

It is not easy to understand these distinctions and nobody has made them clear to the American people who are beginning to wonder why they are involved in all these troubles. For instance, the question might well be asked why President Eisenhower, in his Oct. 31 speech from Washington, when he stated the American position, did not take the simple road instead of discoursing on the thesis of professor James T. Shotwell which may be summarized in the phrase that war is not a suitable instrument for the settlement of international disputes.

If instead of that speech, suppose he had said that nobody having asked the United States, in advance of a decision, to join in this enterprise on either side, we shall stay out of it altogether. Perhaps the President would have accomplished as much by that as by developing a doctrine of manifest right from which we dissent.

How does one dissent from what is manifestly right? And if we dissent from what is a manifest right on the part of Great Britain and France, why did we not protest from what was a manifest wrong, the invasion of Hungary by Soviet Russia and the bombardment of Budapest after Nagy had announced his country's withdrawal from the Warsaw pact?

There must be a logic to all this, but the logic eludes me. Perhaps there is no logic.

Diet and Health

Watch the Water, too, If on Low Salt Diet

By HELMAN N. BUNDESEN

If you're on a specially prescribed low salt or salt-free diet, you'd better make sure your drinking and cooking water is not spoiling it. Maybe you are getting too much salt just from the water.

You should be especially on guard against such a situation if you have a water softener in your home. Some of these units may increase the sodium or salt content of the treated water.

Salt Content

Just how much the salt content is boosted depends upon how hard the water is, the concentration of ions replaced by sodium and upon the maintenance of the water-softening machines.

Now this sodium content might be fairly high. Tests of samples of softened water from university buildings and private homes at Columbia, Missouri, showed the sodium content of one liter of water to be on the average of about 160 to 175 mg. The amount of sodium, of course, varied and occasionally was as high as 253 mg. per liter. This may be enough to nullify any efforts to maintain a low sodium diet.

Solving Problem

In some instances, about the only way to solve this problem is to use the treated water for bathing, washing dishes and doing the laundry and to use untreated water for drinking and cooking.

Even this, however, may not be advisable for some of you who are on strict low sodium diets, for content of the untreated water may be high enough to spoil such diets.

In such cases, it is probably best to use distilled water or bottled water with a known low sodium content.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

B. S.: What causes a coated tongue?

Answer: A coated tongue sometimes results from constipation. If one is in good physical condition and feels well, no attention should be paid to the fact that the tongue is coated.

If we are called upon to express something appropriate on Thanksgiving, so often the response is made up of trite sayings which appear little more than lip service lacking in any "down deep" feeling.

There is really so much for which most of here in this nation should be humbly and devoutly grateful, including the fact that we are free and independent in this time of world turbulence, stress and in some places almost complete hopelessness.

For example today how would we feel if we lived in Hungary, suffering and starving under the brutal heel of Soviet Russia's domination, with families and friends with whom we had been associated being beaten into submission, murdered by guns of ruthless invaders or herded toward Siberian labor camps?

Maybe we may think we may not have ample money; maybe we have to work for a bare living, but we still are free to fight our way to better things, if we have it in us to do so.

Meantime we can enjoy many things for which we should give thanks; things such as were brought out in this week's Rotary Ginger Snap, a little publication carring a message to Rotarians of this community, which said:

"For what should men give thanks? For the simple blessings of the day; for the golden laughter of a child; for grass and trees, water and sunshine; the soft tumult of the falling leaves, and the friendly bark of a dog.

"For neighbors and friends and strangers, who pause in a teeming, turbulent highway to bestow acts of kindness.

"For the calm of the night, and a star-filled sky to light the dark way. For the warm firesides and chill shadows. For the smile of a stranger, to remind us to smile again.

"For the scientist's impenetrable mysteries; for all who mobilize for human needs and happiness.

"For all these, and the countless others, let us give thanks."

Schizophrenia Nips Youths

By Hal Boyle

That schizophrenia, the most widespread mental ailment, strikes often in families with four or more children, and is more likely to develop in the younger than the older children.

That even more significant in the schizophrenia picture is the fact that 40 per cent of its victims are people who, before the age of 15, were deprived of a mother or father, whether by death, desertion, divorce or separation.

That a carpet sweeper manufacturer has started a national campaign to get an 8-hour work day for housewives. The reaction of the average husband: "What wife will stand for working that long?"

That laboratory dogs, subjected to periods of alternate overeating and reducing, developed high blood pressure. Human hypertension, doctors feel, may result from these same dietary errors.

That when Congress is in session, milk consumption in Washington, D. C., and adjoining communities, goes up 20,000 quarts daily. Your guess as to why is as good as mine.

That many devout people do not know that the word with which they end their prayers—"amen"—has a literal meaning . . which is, "so let it be."

That most pawnbrokers have charged the same interest rate on loans—17 per cent—since the 17th century.

That scientists have found they can make a normal cell cancerous by cutting down on its oxygen supply.

That you may think you can shake off a cold in a couple of days, but your nose actually doesn't get back to normal for a full three weeks.

That executives estimate 500,000 new salesmen will be needed to keep the present business boom going in 1957 and they hope to draft many of them from the nation's farm youth.

That Elvis Presley, who has earned $1 million in the first year he was able to vote, may have made more money faster than any young entertainment star in history. It took five years for an earlier bobby sox idol, Frank Sinatra, to rise from a $15 a week singing waiter in 1938 to a $25,000 a week star in 1943.

That of the 2,200 accidental deaths by firearms in the United States last year the largest victim group consisted of children between 2 and 14 years old.

That fires killed 6,500 Americans in 1955, and a lot of them were smokers who lit a last cigarette in bed just before dozing off.

That you can get rabies not from mad dogs but from the bite of any mammal, excluding possibly the whale, but not excluding a mother-in-law.

Where Is the Logic

By George Sokolsky

The Suez war occurred during the last week of the presidential campaign and therefore was an embarrassment to all those who were engaged in that canvass on either side.

It is now obvious that it could not have been postponed because Nasser was organizing a military campaign against Israel which could only have been defeated by Israel taking the offensive.

The issue of aggression then resolves itself almost pathologically into the question of whether the patient is killed by a lethal weapon or is bled to death slowly. That is what happened to Israel which faced utter annihilation at the hands of Nasser. The choking process was actually in operation when the Israeli army under Gen. Moshe Dayan startled the world by a 110-mile uninterrupted march toward the Suez Canal in one day.

Had Nasser any kind of an army, he could have delayed or arrested that march. Where were the airplanes, the tanks, the arms which the Russians gave him? Of course, the answer to that must be that behind each weapon is a man and if men have no will to fight, a war can be lost by the best supplied of nations.

But there is another question that raises itself all the time: where were the other Arab countries? Not one of them went to the support of Nasser immediately. As long as he was choking Israel, Syria and Saudi Arabia applauded him and Jordan squeaked its reticent approval. The Arab nations acted only after they discovered that Nasser had not been destroyed, as they undoubtedly expected him to be.

The question arises: What is aggression? For instance is Soviet Russia an aggressor in Hungary? Who can say, no, to that? But the question is fraught with great danger because if a cease-fire order is filed against Soviet Russia, that country might take an antagonistic view of such a resolution.

After all, it was Soviet Russia that boycotted the United Nations for a period and it was because of that boycott that the United States was able to get the Security Council to accept the Korean war as a United Nations police action.

The British and French had no such advantage; they could not foist their police action on the United Nations, although the United Nations has now taken over this task but as a direct attack on Great Britain and France which did not happen when the United States went into Korea.

Nevertheless if the law is the law and the law is to be applied without prejudice to the strong and to the weak, then the same cease-fire order that the United Nations applied to Israel, Great Britain and France should apply to Soviet Russia in Hungary.

It is not understandable why an exception is made of Soviet Russia, which is, apparently free to butcher the Hungarians while Israel is not free even to defend itself against the Fedayeen, Nasser's commandos who have been molesting their neighbors for eight long years.

It is not easy to understand these distinctions and nobody has made them clear to the American people who are beginning to wonder why they are involved in all these troubles. For instance, the question might well be asked why President Eisenhower, in his Oct. 31 speech from Washington, when he stated the American position, did not take the simple road instead of discoursing on the thesis of professor James T. Shotwell which may be summarized in the phrase that war is not a suitable instrument for the settlement of international disputes.

If instead of that speech, suppose he had said that nobody having asked the United States, in advance of a decision, to join in this enterprise on either side, we shall stay out of it altogether. Perhaps the President would have accomplished as much by that as by developing a doctrine of manifest right from which we dissent.

How does one dissent from what is manifestly right? And if we dissent from what is a manifest right on the part of Great Britain and France, why did we not protest from what was a manifest wrong, the invasion of Hungary by Soviet Russia and the bombardment of Budapest after Nagy had announced his country's withdrawal from the Warsaw pact?

There must be a logic to all this, but the logic eludes me. Perhaps there is no logic.

Sams and Ezras Used to Mixups

BELLEVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Postmaster Ard B. Caron likes to talk about Belleville's 10 Sam Yoders and eight Ezra Peacheys.

"I've never been bawled out by any of them. If the letter gets into the wrong Ezra's or Sam's hands, it's simply passed on until the right one has it," said Caron.

Diet and Health — Watch the Water, too, If on Low Salt Diet

By HELMAN N. BUNDESEN

If you're on a specially prescribed low salt or salt-free diet, you'd better make sure your drinking and cooking water is not spoiling it. Maybe you are getting too much salt just from the water.

You should be especially on guard against such a situation if you have a water softener in your home. Some of these units may increase the sodium or salt content of the treated water.

Salt Content

Just how much the salt content is boosted depends upon how hard the water is, the concentration of ions replaced by sodium and upon the maintenance of the water-softening machines.

Now this sodium content might be fairly high. Tests of samples of softened water from university buildings and private homes at Columbia, Missouri, showed the sodium content of one liter of water to be on the average of about 160 to 175 mg. The amount of sodium, of course, varied and occasionally was as high as 253 mg. per liter. This may be enough to nullify any efforts to maintain a low sodium diet.

Solving Problem

In some instances, about the only way to solve this problem is to use the treated water for bathing, washing dishes and doing the laundry and to use untreated water for drinking and cooking.

Even this, however, may not be advisable for some of you who are on strict low sodium diets, for content of the untreated water may be high enough to spoil such diets.

In such cases, it is probably best to use distilled water or bottled water with a known low sodium content.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

B. S.: What causes a coated tongue?

Answer: A coated tongue sometimes results from constipation. If one is in good physical condition and feels well, no attention should be paid to the fact that the tongue is coated.

Church Society Holds Meeting

Twelve members of the Wesley Mite Society assembled in Fellowship Hall at Grace Methodist Church for the regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Hugh Smith conducted an impressive memorial service for Mrs. Dean Burris, a member recently deceased, reading the First Psalm, a poem "Thankfulness" and led in the singing of a hymn.

Mrs. John Markley, president, conducted the business session which included the usual reports, the sending of round robin cards to Mrs. Pearl Lemons, Mrs. Lester Dodd and Mrs. Jess Thompson, who were reported as ill.

Special reports included 45 calls made, 43 cards sent, 14 bouquets and four food donations during the past month.

A report on sales tax stamps redeemed and the sale of "Holiday Plates" was made which netted a nice sum to be added to the treasury.

A nominating committee composed of Mrs. Earl Scott, Mrs. Willard Moore and Mrs. Wayne Boswell was appointed to select officers for the coming year, and plans were made for the Christmas party which will feature a gift exchange.

Mrs. Harry Todd, program leader, presented Miss Mary Edge in a piano solo "Toy Makers Dream" and Mrs. Maude Thomas in a reading "A Prayer Meeting". A contest was conducted by Mrs. Todd and awards went to Mrs. Willard Moore. Mrs. Hugh Smith and Miss Edge presented a piano solo "The Home Coming March" to close the program.

The hostess committee composed of Mrs. Harry Miller, chairman, Mrs. Elza Sanderson and Mrs. Maude Thomas served refreshments at a table decorated with a clever Thanksgiving theme.

Turncoat GI Says He's Coming Home

URANIA, La. (AP)—Aaron Wilson, who decided not to come home after his capture in Korea nearly six years ago, now hopes to be back by Christmas.

Mrs. Henry Wilson says her 24-year-old son had written that he had applied for permission to come back and was being aided by the Chinese Red Cross.

"I will be with you all for Christmas," the onetime corporal with the 7th Infantry Division said in his first letter home in eight months.

Wilson was captured Nov. 28, 1950, near the Changjin Reservoir. He refused repatriation.

Meet United Nations' Girl Guides

This group of United Nations headquarters girl guides includes young women from China, Greece, Austria, the United States, France, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia and, again the United States. There are some 80 such guides.

By JEROME DREYER
(Central Press Association)

UNITED NATIONS, New York—The tour through the United Nations building was finished and the attractive, blue-uniformed girl guide asked the sightseeing group from Brazil, "....Mas prequntas?" One man stepped forward and whispered, "....Si, amor. me quieres dar tu numero del telefono?"

(Translated— She: "Any more questions?" He: "Yes, honey, will you give me your telephone number?"

This routine on the part of visiting wolves has become virtually an every-day occurrence to the 80-odd girls employed by the U. N. as tour conductors. Usually they answer "no" in the language in which the question was posed, which could be any one of the 24 different languages and dialects spoken by the girls.

"However," volunteered one foot and throat weary guide, "the answer would be an emphatic 'yes' if the gentleman knew of a heel lift that would wear indefinitely, and if he had a sure cure for laryngitis. We're on our feet four to six hours during a working day, from 9:30 to 4:45 walking and talking, walking and talking."

Despite this, the United Nations employment office still receives more than 100 applications a month from girls all over the world who want to become guides.

* * *

ACCEPTANCE standards are not rigid— the girls must be in excellent health, preferably between the ages of 20 and 26, this combination being essential for the stamina required to trek over the carpeted and marble floors four or five times a day, each go-around covering about a mile and three-quarters.

After an applicant is okayed, she takes a two - week training course in which she studies the organization of the U. N. and its specialized agencies, its purposes and accomplishments. Included in the course are lectures, film showings and required reading.

When the training period is completed, there is one month of observation during which rough spots in the fledgling guide's technique are smoothed out. Salaries start at $60 a week and, after six months, are raised to $65.

Their well - tailored uniforms — jacket, shirt, overseas cap— are given to them. They supply their own shoes.

The speeches given by the girls to visitors are not stereotyped. Those in charge of the tours have found out that the results are better when the girls are permitted to tell the U. N. story their own way, reflecting their own personalities.

* * *

THIS IS EVIDENT in closing remarks, at the conclusion of tours. Each girl winds up differently. For example, one girl who has done research in the U. N. archives uses this quote from a speech by Trygve Lie, former secretary-general:

"This building is anchored 80 feet deep in the solid rock of Manhattan— but the true foundations of the United Nations are in your faith and support."

Although their talks vary, the girls are agreed on one thing — the effect of the mediation room on visitors. This is a chapel where delegates may go to pray and meditate. It is used by Christians, Moslems, Buddhists and Jews, for anyone who wants to commune with his Maker.

"We have seen visitors stand and pray outside the mediation room," said one guide, "and we have seen others with tears streaming down their faces. It is a place that moves people deeply."

* * *

A TYPICAL, yet untypical, girl guide is Amrit Modak, from India. Born in that country's central provinces, she came to the United States in 1953 on a scholarship to Hampton College in Virginia. At present she is doing post graduate work at City college in New York, where she is majoring in social science.

Amrit is typical of her fellow guides in that she shares the feeling of the entire corps that the U. N. if properly supported, can be a powerful organization for world peace; that by telling visitors of the U. N.'s aims, she is helping make this goal possible.

Miss Modak is untypical of the other girls in that her uniform is the dress of her country — the sari, the wrap-around garment of Hindu women. So well known is she and her colorful costume that visitors from throughout the world often request her as a guide.

When asked how she feels about her job, her reply coincided with that given by most of the other girls, "How can you get a job as satisfying as this one You have a thrilling subject to talk about."

ANNE FOGARTY'S new trench silhouette is shown in bugle navy flannel. It is fashioned loose with a high-fitted trench coat yoke and is to be worn belted or flowing. Gilt buttons at the neck add to the parade touch. It also comes in banner red and campaign yellow.

Court May Straighten That Long, Thin Line

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court has a long, thin line to follow in handling one dispute.

The case involves a strip of land 4.5 inches wide and 140 feet long.

Building owner Bertha Breier contends that if the land is not awarded to her, half of a cafe wall will be torn down.

1965 May See California As Most Populous of States

WASHINGTON (AP) — California, the nation's second most populous state, may take over first place from New York by 1965, the Census Bureau said today.

New estimates by the bureau figured that California's population leaped upward by 2,846,000 between 1950 and last July 1. This was 1,481,969 more than the gain of 1,365,000 credited to New York State in that period.

Thus, census said, the gap between these two biggest states has been narrowed from 4,243,969 in 1950 to 2,762,000 on July 1 this year. As of that date California's population was set at 13,433,000 compared with 16,195,000 for New York. In 1950 California had 10,586,223 against New York's 14,830,192.

Census said a projection of gains, based on present factors of increase, indicate California may overtake New York in less than 10 years. California's gain was 26.9 per cent since 1950 against 9.2 per cent for New York.

Next to California and New York in order of total gains were: Texas with 1,214,000, Ohio 1,150,000, Michigan 1,144,000, Florida, Illinois 720,000, New Jersey 567,000, Indiana 478,000, Maryland 469,00, and Pennsylvania (the third most populous state) 466,600.

Pennsylvania, 10,964,000, up 4.4 per cent; Illinois 9,432,000, up 8.3 per cent; Ohio 9,096,000, up 14.5 per cent; Texas 8,925,000, up 15.7 per cent; Michigan 7,516,000, up 18 per cent; New Jersey 5,403,000, up 11.7 per cent; Massachusetts 4,812,000, up 2.6 per cent; and North Carolina 4,423,000, up 8.9 per cent.

The estimate showed the national gain in population was 10.9 per cent, from 150,697,361 to 167,191,000 on July 1. As of today, Census estimated the national total at 169,599,571.

Census said the 11 far western states showed the biggest increase by regions—22.4 per cent. The North Central or Midwestern region from Michigan and Ohio through Nebraska, Kansas and the Dakotas was next with 10.8 per cent. The smallest increase was 7.1 per cent for the Northeastern states, including New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Horses, Mules Using West Virginia Turnpike

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A Pennsylvanian said he liked the West Virginia Turnpike just fine, but it was the first time he had encountered horses and mules on a toll road.

Joseph Moore of Harrisburg, Pa., in a letter to the Charleston Gazette, said he almost ran into them on a foggy night near the Chelyan interchange. He said a service station attendant told him the animals "belonged to a sawmill nearby."

Beef and Pork Cuts Featured In Food Marts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Housewives whose families are tired of eating turkey will find rib roasts and other cuts of beef featured in many of the nation's grovery stores this weekend.

Also featured are pork roasts and pork chops, which are 4 to 10 cents cheaper this week in some sections. Ribs of beef are quoted as much as 6 cents cheaper.

Some stores will feature turkey again this weekend. Apparently this is on the theory that people will buy turkey any time—even right after the Thanksgiving Day feast—if it is cheap enough, and turkeys are less expensive just now.

Federal market experts, incidentally, credit the lower price of turkeys with bringing about the lowest costs in five years for Thanksgiving dinners. A typical family of four paid $6.20 for the big meal, $1.48 less than last Thanksgiving and away below the $8.63 meal when the figures first were compiled in 1951.

Cranberries, apples and oranges are down from 1955, too, federal men say, while canned pumpkin, sweet potatoes, walnuts and celery are about the same and green beans are higher.

Sweet potatoes, like some other vegetables, very often are higher around holidays, and such is the case this year.

AFTER A DIVORCE which lasted 16 years, retired Lt. Col. Myron C. Browne, 80, and his former wife, Norma E. Browne, 79, are remarried at Northside Methodist church in Los Angeles. Minister is Rev. William H. Merwin. When divorced in 1940, they had been married 42 years. (International Soundphoto)

Meet United Nations' Girl Guides

This group of United Nations headquarters girl guides includes young women from China, Greece, Austria, the United States, France, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia and, again the United States. There are some 80 such guides.

By JEROME DREYER
(Central Press Association)

UNITED NATIONS, New York—The tour through the United Nations building was finished and the attractive, blue-uniformed girl guide asked the sightseeing group from Brazil, ". . . Mas prequntas?" One man stepped forward and whispered, ". . . Si, amor. me quieres dar tu numero del telefono?"

(Translated— She: "Any more questions?" He: "Yes, honey, will you give me your telephone number?"

This routine on the part of visiting wolves has become virtually an every-day occurrence to the 80-odd girls employed by the U. N. as tour conductors. Usually they answer "no" in the language in which the question was posed, which could be any one of the 24 different languages and dialects spoken by the girls.

"However," volunteered one foot and throat weary guide, "the answer would be an emphatic 'yes' if the gentleman knew of a heel lift that would wear indefinitely, and if he had a sure cure for laryngitis. We're on our feet four to six hours during a working day, from 9:30 to 4:45 walking and talking, walking and talking."

Despite this, the United Nations employment office still receives more than 100 applications a month from girls all over the world who want to become guides.

* * *

ACCEPTANCE standards are not rigid— the girls must be in excellent health, preferably between the ages of 20 and 26, this combination being essential for the stamina required to trek over the carpeted and marble floors four or five times a day, each go-around covering about a mile and three-quarters.

After an applicant is okayed, she takes a two - week training course in which she studies the organization of the U. N. and its specialized agencies, its purposes and accomplishments. Included in the course are lectures, film showings and required reading.

When the training period is completed, there is one month of observation during which rough spots in the fledgling guide's technique are smoothed out. Salaries start at $60 a week and, after six months, are raised to $65.

Their well - tailored uniforms — jacket, shirt, overseas cap— are given to them. They supply their own shoes.

The speeches given by the girls to visitors are not stereotyped. Those in charge of the tours have found out that the results are better when the girls are permitted to tell the U. N. story their own way, reflecting their own personalities.

* * *

THIS IS EVIDENT in closing remarks, at the conclusion of tours. Each girl winds up differently. For example, one girl who has done research in the U. N. archives uses this quote from a speech by Trygve Lie, former secretary-general:

"This building is anchored 80 feet deep in the solid rock of Manhattan— but the true foundations of the United Nations are in your faith and support."

Although their talks vary, the girls are agreed on one thing — the effect of the mediation room on visitors. This is a chapel where delegates may go to pray and meditate. It is used by Christians, Moslems, Buddhists and Jews, for anyone who wants to commune with his Maker.

"We have seen visitors stand and pray outside the mediation room," said one guide, "and we have seen others with tears streaming down their faces. It is a place that moves people deeply."

* * *

A TYPICAL, yet untypical, girl guide is Amrit Modak, from India. Born in that country's central provinces, she came to the United States in 1953 on a scholarship to Hampton College in Virginia. At present she is doing post graduate work at City college in New York, where she is majoring in social science.

Amrit is typical of her fellow guides in that she shares the feeling of the entire corps that the U. N. if properly supported, can be a powerful organization for world peace; that by telling visitors of the U. N.'s aims, she is helping make this goal possible.

Miss Modak is untypical of the other girls in that her uniform is the dress of her country — the sari, the wrap-around garment of Hindu women. So well known is she and her colorful costume that visitors from throughout the world often request her as a guide.

When asked how she feels about her job, her reply coincided with that given by most of the other girls, "How can you get a job as satisfying as this one You have a thrilling subject to talk about."

Court May Straighten That Long, Thin Line

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court has a long, thin line to follow in handling one dispute.

The case involves a strip of land 4.5 inches wide and 140 feet long.

Building owner Bertha Breier contends that if the land is not awarded to her, half of a cafe wall will be torn down.

Unscheduled Collection

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—There was an unscheduled collection taken up at an Anchorage church service. Jo Ann Gates complained to police that $120 was taken from her purse while she was singing in the church choir.

1965 May See California As Most Populous of States

WASHINGTON (AP) — California, the nation's second most populous state, may take over first place from New York by 1965, the Census Bureau said today.

New estimates by the bureau figured that California's population leaped upward by 2,846,000 between 1950 and last July 1. This was 1,481,969 more than the gain of 1,365,000 credited to New York State in that period.

Thus, census said, the gap between these two biggest states has been narrowed from 4,243,969 in 1950 to 2,762,000 on July 1 this year. As of that date California's population was set at 13,433,000 compared with 16,195,000 for New York. In 1950 California had 10,586,223 against New York's 14,830,192.

Census said a projection of gains, based on present factors of increase, indicate California may overtake New York in less than 10 years. California's gain was 26.9 per cent since 1950 against 9.2 per cent for New York.

Next to California and New York in order of total gains were: Texas with 1,214,000, Ohio 1,150,000, Michigan 1,144,000, Florida, Illinois 720,000, New Jersey 567,000, Indiana 478,000, Maryland 469,00, and Pennsylvania (the third most populous state) 466,000.

Pennsylvania, 10,964,000, up 4.4 per cent; Illinois 9,432,000, up 8.3 per cent; Ohio 9,096,000, up 14.5 per cent; Texas 8,925,000, up 15.7 per cent; Michigan 7,516,000, up 18 per cent; New Jersey 5,403,000, up 11.7 per cent; Massachusetts 4,812,000, up 2.6 per cent; and North Carolina 4,423,000, up 8.9 per cent.

The estimate showed the national gain in population was 10.9 per cent, from 150,697,361 to 167,191,000 on July 1. As of today, Census estimated the national total at 169,599,571.

Census said the 11 far western states showed the biggest increase by regions—22.4 per cent. The North Central or Midwestern region from Michigan and Ohio through Nebraska, Kansas and the Dakotas was next with 10.8 per cent. The smallest increase was 7.1 per cent for the Northeastern states, including New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

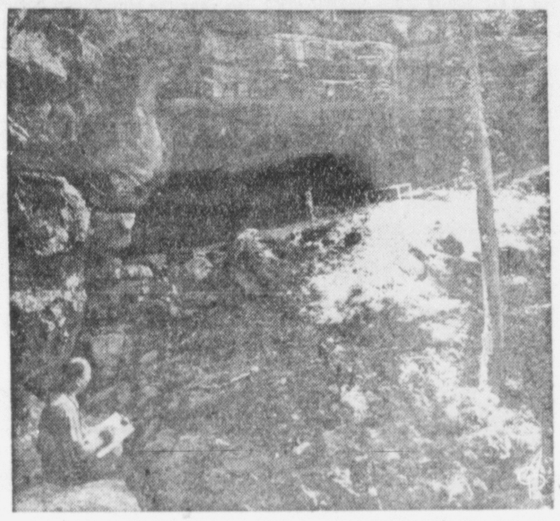
Modern Cave Men Trace Life In America Back 80 Centuries



Entrance to Russell cave, ancient 'treasure house.'

By DEANE & DAVID HELLER
(Central Press Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — Modern cave men now are busily tracing the life of ancient Indians back more than eight thousand years in the longest continuous record of man's history found anywhere in North America.

Excavations by scientists of the National Geographic society and the Smithsonian Institution in a limestone cave near Bridgport, Ala., have archeologists everywhere humming with excitement.

The find was made in Russell cave, in north Alabama, close to the Tennessee border. As diggers have uncovered layer after layer of bones, weapons and other material, they have found a clear record of the way of life of the ancient cave Indians that was thousands of years old when the Egyptians were building the pyramids.

There's no guesswork involved about the ancient remains. By using radioactive carbon 14, the scientists can measure the length of time the ancient remnants were buried. For example, they know that the ashes of an ancient campfire at the very bottom of the diggings are 8,160 years old, give or take about 300 years. By dating other objects, they can estimate the age of things found in the same layer of soil with them.

At the six - foot level, a skeleton was found of a cave Indian who lived and died about 4,000 years ago—that was about the time of the pyramids. In another carefully made grave, a dog was buried ceremoniously with his ancient master.

* * *

NATIONAL Geographic scientists declare that the record of these ancient men is as easy to read as the rings of a tree because they had a peculiar habit. They never threw anything out. They just piled it in the back of the cave. When it got too cluttered they just buried in under layers of fresh earth. The deeper down the modern cave men dig, the older the stuff they discover becomes.

Russell cave was occupied by cave men from about 6,000 B. C. until about 1650 A. D.—shortly before the first white men appeared in northern Alabama. What happened to them is a mystery.

To get down to their discoveries, the archeologists had to dig past a layer of debris left by modern picnickers. Underneath, they found arrowheads, pottery and spearheads and knives which they say belonged to the Woodland Period—a long time that extends 21 centuries between 1100 A. D. and a thousand years Before the Birth of Christ.

* * *

THE CAVE men didn't know how to grow food. They searched the forests and the valleys for wild seeds, nuts and fruit. Mussels and other shellfish from the streams were a delicacy and the more talented ones caught fish with a hook carved from a deer's toe bone.

Using the latest of weapons—a stone - tipped spear, the ancient cave dweller hunted rabbits, turkeys, 'possums and deer. His most fearsome foe (outside of hostile fellow cavemen), was the bear. These cave men were little fellows, standing hardly five feet tall, but they were good hunters as the bear teeth they proudly wore in necklaces proves.

Deeper down than the Woodland Period the scientists found relics from the Archaic Period before such "modern" items as the bow and arrow and pottery were known. In those bad old days, they used hide vessels and grass-fiber baskets. For weapons the earliest men used sharp rocks and a stone pierced by man - made holes. These are called "atlatls" — primitive spear - throwing devices.

The scientists don't know what they'll find as they dig deeper, but they're excitedly wielding their shovels to find out.

HER GREAT ambition in life, says Monique Van Vooren, the "Belgian Bulge," is to own a white mink bed. "I get a wonderful vibration from mink," says Monique, well shown in New York. Now then, fellas, if you were stuck for a Christmas present for her, there you are. (International)

Modern Cave Men Trace Life In America Back 80 Centuries

Entrance to Russell cave, ancient 'treasure house.'

By DEANE & DAVID HELLER
(Central Press Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — Modern cave men now are busily tracing the life of ancient Indians back more than eight thousand years in the longest continuous record of man's history found anywhere in North America.

Excavations by scientists of the National Geographic society and the Smithsonian Institution in a limestone cave near Bridgport, Ala., have archeologists everywhere humming with excitement.

The find was made in Russell cave, in north Alabama, close to the Tennessee border. As diggers have uncovered layer after layer of bones, weapons and other material, they have found a clear record of the way of life of the ancient cave Indians that was thousands of years old when the Egyptians were building the pyramids.

There's no guesswork involved about the ancient remains. By using radioactive carbon 14, the scientists can measure the length of time the ancient remnants were buried. For example, they know that the ashes of an ancient campfire at the very bottom of the diggings are 8,160 years old, give or take about 300 years. By dating other objects, they can estimate the age of things found in the same layer of soil with them.

At the six - foot level, a skeleton was found of a cave Indian who lived and died about 4,000 years ago—that was about the time of the pyramids. In another carefully made grave, a dog was buried ceremoniously with his ancient master.

* * *

NATIONAL Geographic scientists declare that the record of these ancient men is as easy to read as the rings of a tree because they had a peculiar habit. They never threw anything out. They just piled it in the back of the cave. When it got too cluttered they just buried in under layers of fresh earth. The deeper down the modern cave men dig, the older the stuff they discover becomes.

Russell cave was occupied by cave men from about 6,000 B. C. until about 1650 A. D.—shortly before the first white men appeared in northern Alabama. What happened to them is a mystery.

To get down to their discoveries, the archeologists had to dig past a layer of debris left by modern picnickers. Underneath, they found arrowheads, pottery and spearheads and knives which they say belonged to the Woodland Period—a long time that extends 21 centuries between 1100 A. D. and a thousand years Before the Birth of Christ.

* * *

THE CAVE men didn't know how to grow food. They searched the forests and the valleys for wild seeds, nuts and fruit. Mussels and other shellfish from the streams were a delicacy and the more talented ones caught fish with a hook carved from a deer's toe bone.

Using the latest of weapons—a stone - tipped spear, the ancient cave dweller hunted rabbits, turkeys, 'possums and deer. His most fearsome foe (outside of hostile fellow cavemen), was the bear. These cave men were little fellows, standing hardly five feet tall, but they were good hunters as the bear teeth they proudly wore in necklaces proves.

Deeper down than the Woodland Period the scientists found relics from the Archaic Period before such "modern" items as the bow and arrow and pottery were known. In those bad old days, they used hide vessels and grass-fiber baskets. For weapons the earliest men used sharp rocks and a stone pierced by man - made holes. These are called "atlatls" — primitive spear - throwing devices.

HER GREAT ambition in life, says Monique Van Vooren, the "Belgian Bulge," is to own a white mink bed. "I get a wonderful vibration from mink," says Monique, well shown in New York. Now then, fellas, if you were stuck for a Christmas present for her, there you are. (International)

Virginia Colony, Not Massachusetts, Scene of First U. S. Thanksgiving

By H. D. CRAWFORD
(Central Press Association)

CHARLES CITY, Va. — America's first Thanksgiving was celebrated along Virginia's James river in the late autumn of 1619 by 35 Berkeley Hundred colonists, who landed from the ship Margaret after a carefully planned voyage from England.

Instructions and directions from the Berkeley company in England requested that the day of the ship's arrival at the place assigned for their plantations "shall be yearly and perpetualy keept as a day of Thanksgiving to Almighty God."

These settlers stepped ashore on Dec. 4, 1619. This was nearly a year before the Pilgrims' Mayflower reached New England on November 21, 1620. The Berkeley Thanksgiving was observed two years before the Pilgrims and their Indian guests feasted together on venison and wild fowl.

* * *

BERKELEY plantation has remained intact during all the intervening centuries, however, and its present owner, Malcolm Jamieson, still possesses the plantation's original three-mile waterfront along the historic James.

This autumn a strange and interesting rendezvous with history is being held on Thanksgiving Day at the site of that landing 337 years ago at Berkeley.

Descendants of John Woodlief, original leader of the Berkeley colonists who disembarked from the Margaret and observed Thanksgiving according to their instructions, are going to celebrate Thanksgiving at that 1619 landing site.

Fred P. Woodlief of Richmond, Va., has taken the initiative to raise funds from more than 100 members of the Woodlief family to erect a monument along the James at Berkeley plantation. This is a brick summer house 12 feet long and nearly seven feet wide, with seats that afford magnificent views across the broad James.

* * *

A LIMESTONE tablet built into one wall will commemorate for future visitors the landing of the Berkeley settlers. Seals of Virginia and of the company that organized the original colony pay their due tribute. Outside will be a fountain.

"We know that we have an interesting historic event not only for our family, but also for the state of Virginia to know and feel proud of," Woodlief told this writer. "You know, of course, the saying, 'Virginia is where history was made.' Well, this is certainly double true of Berkeley plantation."

* * *

BERKELEY consists of land granted by King James I to the Berkeley company. The plantation still has 1,400 of the original acres. During the sweep of nearly three and a half centuries, many important events have taken place at Berkeley.

The present beautiful Georgian mansion was built in 1726 by the Benjamin Harrison of colonial times. His son, Col Benjamin Harrison, inherited the plantation, became a member of the Continental Congress, and was a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

William Henry Harrison, the colonel's son, was born at Berkeley. After being elected President of the United States, he returned to Berkeley to write his inaugural address in the room where he was born.

William Henry Harrison's grandson, Benjamin Harrison, was another President. Berkeley thus is the ancestral home of two Presidents. Every President from George Washington to James Buchanan is said to have been entertained at Berkeley.

Berkeley during the Civil War was known as Harrison's Landing. Gen. George McClellan made it his headquarters, and President Lincoln visited him there in 1862. Gen. Daniel Butterfield that same summer composed Taps at Berkeley.

Thanksgiving traditionally has been handed down from that feasting of the Pilgrims and Indians in New England in 1621, but the Woodlief monument at Berkeley and the dramatic history of this magnificent old plantation along the James remind us not to forget those Berkeley company instructions of 1619 that "in the land of Virginia shall be yearly and perputaly keept holy. . .a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God."

Matching Bandages As Bridal Gifts?

Lester Olshansky, president of the Independent Housewares Exhibit here suggests items most useful to a new bride are frying pans, double boilers, roaster, muffin tins, cake pans, bread knife and paring knife, measuring cups and spoons.

He says the simple can opener is probably the most practical item for the new bride who is just starting out and that a matching set of bandages would make the gift more appropriate.

Virginia Colony, Not Massachusetts, Scene of First U. S. Thanksgiving

By H. D. CRAWFORD
(Central Press Association)

CHARLES CITY, Va. — America's first Thanksgiving was celebrated along Virginia's James river in the late autumn of 1619 by 35 Berkeley Hundred colonists, who landed from the ship Margaret after a carefully planned voyage from England.

Instructions and directions from the Berkeley company in England requested that the day o. the ship's arrival at the place assigned for their plantations "shall be yearly and perputaly keept as a day of Thanksgiving to Almighty God."

These settlers stepped ashore on Dec. 4, 1619. This was nearly a year before the Pilgrims' Mayflower reached New England on November 21, 1620. The Berkeley Thanksgiving was observed two years before the Pilgrims and their Indian guests feasted together on venison and wild fowl.

* * *

BERKELEY plantation has remained intact during all the intervening centuries, however, and its present owner, Malcolm Jamieson, still possesses the plantation's original three-mile waterfront along the historic James.

This autumn a strange and interesting rendezvous with history is being held on Thanksgiving Day at the site of that landing 337 years ago at Berkeley.

Descendants of John Woodlief, original leader of the Berkeley colonists who disembarked from the Margaret and observed Thanksgiving according to their instructions, are going to celebrate Thanksgiving at that 1619 landing site.

Fred P. Woodlief of Richmond, Va., has taken the initiative to raise funds from more than 100 members of the Woodlief family to erect a monument along the James at Berkeley plantation. This is a brick summer house 12 feet long and nearly seven feet wide, with seats that afford magnificent views across the broad James.

* * *

LIMESTONE tablet built into one wall will commemorate for future visitors the landing of the Berkeley settlers. Seals of Virginia and of the company that organized the original colony pay their due tribute. Outside will be a fountain.

"We know that we have an interesting historic event not only for our family, but also for the state of Virginia to know and feel proud of," Woodlief told this writer. "You know, of course, the saying, 'Virginia is where history was made.' Well, this is certainly double true of Berkeley plantation."

* * *

BERKELEY consists of land granted by King James I to the Berkeley company. The plantation still has 1,400 of the original acres. During the sweep of nearly three and a half centuries, many important events have taken place at Berkeley.

The present beautiful Georgian mansion was built in 1726 by the Benjamin Harrison of colonial times. His son, Col Benjamin Harrison, inherited the plantation, became a member of the Continental Congress, and was a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

William Henry Harrison, the colonel's son, was born at Berkeley. After being elected President of the United States, he returned to Berkeley to write his inaugural address in the room where he was born.

William Henry Harrison's grandson, Benjamin Harrison, was another President. Berkeley thus is the ancestral home of two Presidents. Every President from George Washington to James Buchanan is said to have been entertained at Berkeley.

Berkeley during the Civil War was known as Harrison's Landing. Gen. George McClellan made it his headquarters, and President Lincoln visited him there in 1862. Gen. Daniel Butterfield that same summer composed Taps at Berkeley.

Thanksgiving traditionally has been handed down from that feasting of the Pilgrims and Indians in New England in 1621, but the Woodlief monument at Berkeley and the dramatic history of this magnificent old plantation along the James remind us not to forget those Berkeley company instructions of 1619 that "in the land of Virginia shall be yearly and perputaly keept holy. . .a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God."

The population of France is 43 million.

Matching Bandages As Bridal Gifts?

CHICAGO (AP) — A housewares expert says women who are practical in their own kitchens often lose their heads when buying bridal shower gifts.

Lester Olshansky, president of the Independent Housewares Exhibit here suggests items most useful to a new bride are frying pans, double boilers, roaster, muffin tins, cake pans, bread knife and paring knife, measuring cups and spoons.

He says the simple can opener is probably the most practical item for the new bride who is just starting out and that a matching set of bandages would make the gift more appropriate.

16 Congresswomen Won't Form 'Bloc'

By ESTHER TUFTY
(Central Press Association)

WASHINGTON — Twenty - seven women ran for Congress in the 1956 elections, but only two not already in the House of Representatives were successful.

They are Mrs. Florence O. Dwyer, the first Republican woman from New Jersey ever to be elected to Congress, and Mrs. Kathryn Granahan, widow of the Pennsylvania Democratic congressman who had served five terms.

Why did these two women win and the other 12 new candidates lose? Reasons differ from district to district, but Mrs. Dwyer has a reputation of being "the best vote - getter in the New Jersey legislature." It helped that her sixth district traditionally is Republican.

Attractive Mrs. Granahan almost "inherited" the seat as seven of the 16 women incumbents also did through their husbands' deaths. For years she had worked closely with her husband during the 10 years he was in the House, and so qualified herself with the voters and the job.

* * *

SOME STATES never have had a woman in Congress, but others are quite used to the idea. In fact, three managed to get nominated in New York state and two in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania in this election.

Typically, Michigan for years didn't have a woman in the delegation, but finally a tall Republican woman judge, Ruth Thompson, got the nomination in 1950 and that means election in the Ninth District.

Mrs. Florence O. Dwyer

Mrs. Kathryn Granahan

Then another woman judge, Martha Griffiths, a Democrat, came along and was elected twice. In the primaries some six other women unsuccessfully took the plunge in Michigan this time.

When women do conquer, they have a record of getting reelected. The dean of the distaff side of the House, Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, came to Congress in 1925! Frances Bolton of Cleveland came in 1940. She's a widow and mother of a congressman!

In fact, the political pros are so impressed they asked a woman to run against a woman, probably on the theory that only another woman could defeat a female incumbent.

It didn't work. In the 13th District of Illinois, Helen Benson Leys did not overthrow Republican Marguerite Church, and out in Idaho Democratic Congresswoman Gracie Pfost won from the strong opposition of Miss Louise Shadduck, once on the staff of Sen. Henry C. Dworshak. These last two debated such unladylike sounding issues as Hell's Canyon and secondary boycotting by labor!

In the new Congress, there will be 15 women in the House and one in the Senate, Republican Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, who was not up for reelection. Of the 16, nine are Democrats and seven Republicans.

* * *

WILL THESE women vote the same on issues of special interest to women, such as the Equal Pay for Equal Work bill or for the Equal Rights amendment to the Constitution?

The answer is "no." There is no such thing as a female bloc. They don't even agree on being called "congresswoman," some preferring "legislator," "member," or even 'congressman."

Others wince when an overly gallant congressman gts up and coos, "Will the gentlewoman from Ohio yield?" She knows he isn't proposing anything not proper, but in his voice there often is a hint of inequality which she resents.

Apparently it helps if the woman candidate is married or has been, especially to a former congressman. There are no spinsters in the new 85th Congress, although there are plenty of bachelors!

One Streetcar Line Left in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukeeans have bid farewell, but not sadly to the No. 11 streetcar line that linked the South Side with the midtown area. The cars were replaced by motor buses.

The departure of the cars from the route leaves Milwaukee, the nation's 13th largest city, with only one remaining streetcar line.

Federal Group Due To Study Utility Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) opens hearings Feb. 4 to determine whether utility companies sponsoring power projects for two atomic energy installations be required to give up stock interests.

There are 10 companies sponsoring the Ohio Valley Electric Corp. OVEC, with its subsidiary, Indiana-Kentucky Electric Corp., was created in 1952 to supply power for the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) plant in Pike County, Ohio.

Five utility companies sponsored Electric Energy, Inc., formed in 1951 to provide power for the AEC installation at Paducah, Ky.

SEC said some sponsoring firms in each case acquired stock in the two new utilities (OVEC and Electric Energy, Inc.) and thus required approval from SEC under the Federal Holding Company Act.

SEC stressed that the hearings will not cause any interruption of power supply to the AEC installations. They will deal with equity stock interests and not with the operation or financing arrangements of the projects.

Ohio Plans Set For Giving Aid To Hungarians

Food and Clothing Needed; Placement Of Refugees Sought

COLUMBUS—The Church World Service Coordinating Committee of the Ohio Council of Churches has announced a three-fold program of aid for Hungarian refugees.

Goals of the program are increased food and clothing collection and distribution, and the placement of refugees in Ohio homes and jobs, according to Dr. W. Henry Shillington, executive secretary of the Council.

The committee, meeting at the Ohio Council's offices here, set up three clothing collection centers in Columbus, in addition to the 40 already in operation throughout Ohio. The Columbus centers are at North Broadway Methodist Church, Central Community Church and in a vacant building adjacent to the Ohio Council office at 145 N. Front St.

The Columbus centers will be operated in cooperation with the United Church Women of the Columbus Area Council of Churches.

In order to get assistance to the refugees as swiftly as possible, the committee urged groups or individual donors to follow these instructions:

Clothing—All types of new or immediately usable clothing is needed, especially warm winter clothing, including heavy practical shoes and galoshes (tied together in pairs). Blankets also are needed.

All clothing should be securely packed in heavy bags or cartons and well tied for immediate loading on pickup trucks. Apparel should be taken off hangers before packing. The packaged clothing should be delivered to any one of the collection centers.

Donors are asked, if possible, to weigh the packages and mail money to cover processing and distribution, directly to Church World Service, Nappanee, Ind. The usual rate is 8 cents a pound for this service. The funds should be designated "for Hungarian relief clothing."

Foods — Funds for purchasing food can be sent directly to the Ohio Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) office, 141 N. Front St., Columbus, designated for Hungarian relief foodstuffs. Checks should be made out to Ohio CROP.

Ohio CROP, in cooperation with the World Council of Churches, already is sending U. S. government surplus and other foodstuffs to needy Hungarians, through church channels in Austria.

Refugee placement — Hungarian refugees already are arriving in the United States, under President Eisenhower's order to admit 5,000, and are being temporarily quartered at Camp Kilmer, N. J. Ohio soon will get its allotment. Homes and jobs are needed for them. Ohioans interested in helping place refugees are urged to work through their local churches and denominations, or to call the Rev. Clyde N. Rogers, chairman of the Governor's Committee on Refugee Relief, at the Ohio Council of Churches, Columbus.

50th Birthday To Make Him A Millionaire

CINCINNATI (AP) — Unless his mother dies sooner, it will be 1978 before Thomas E. Doyle finally gets possession of his grandfather's fortune—almost a million dollars.

That's the gist of trust fund provisions upheld Tuesday by Judge George E. Kearns in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

Doyle, 28, of near South Fort Mitchell, Ky., sought to set aside an amendment to the trust which he contended his grandfather, Edward H. Doyle, made through undue influence of his grandmother.

He asserted that grandmother Doyle had an intense hatred for Doyle's mother, and persuaded grandfather Doyle to stipulate that his grandson get no benefit from the trust fund until he is 50, unless his mother dies sooner.

Judge Kearns said, "The court has all the sympathy in the world for the grandson," but that no evidence indicated undue or fraudulent influence had caused the trust amendment.

Grandfather Doyle, a coal operator who made his money during World War I, set up the trust in 1933. All heirs but Doyle have died; his mother never was in the trust agreement.

But there's one consolation: There will be a lot more money for Doyle in 1978.

The fund now amounts to more than $900,000. Income has already reached $30,000 yearly, and at that rate, Doyle will be a millionaire at age 50.

5 Japs Paroled

TOKYO (AP)—The United States today paroled five Japanese war criminals. Their release reduced the number still held in Tokyo's Sugamo Prison to 134—91 sentenced by the United States, 4 by Britain and 39 by Australia.

Ohio Antibotics Sent to Hungary

CLEVELAND (AP)—A $25,000 shipment of antibiotics left Cleveland Tuesday for Austria where the Red Cross will distribute it through for first aid for Hungarians.

Half of the money for the drugs was contributed through the Cleveland chapter of the Committee for Hungarian Liberation. An equal contribution was made by a pharmaceutical manufacturer.

Thanksgiving Commutations Granted to 6 Ohio Slayers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche has granted Thanksgiving commutations to six slayers, making them eligible for parole consideration.

The governor reduced the first degree murder sentences of one woman and three men to second degree murder. He also reduced sentences of second degree murder to manslaughter for two prisoners.

The woman is 73-year-old Rosie Cusomano. She is serving a life sentence in Marysville Prison for Women for killing Joseph Congeni in Akron. Congeni was a roomer living at the home of Mrs. Cusomano and her husband. She has served 34 years and now works in the sewing room at the women's reformatory.

The men are:

John L. Messner, 55, sentenced in 1929 from Hamilton County for killing Peter Dumely, town marshal of North College Hill, a Cincinnati suburb, during a holdup. He has served 27 years and for the last 10 months has been a trusty at the governor's mansion.

George Merryweather, 53, of Cuyahoga County for killing Mrs. Anna Sturski during a robbery. He has served 22½ years and now is a clerk in the penitentiary's protestant chapel.

Those whose second degree murder sentences, carrying a life term, were reduced to manslaughter which carries a one-20 year sentence were:

George Richard Brown, 35, sentenced from Lake County for killing his sweetheart, during an argument over the attentions of other men. He has served five years and has been a trusty in the governor's mansion for one year.

Russell Barnes, 47, of Tuscarawas County, sentenced for killing his wif in an argument over a divorce suit filed against him. He has served nine years and has been a trusty in the governor's mansion for one year.

Gasoline, Not Oil, Sent To Fire Furnace

COLUMBUS (AP)—Bill Vanderson, maintenance foreman at Columbus' new health and safety center, thinks he set a world record for the 40-foot dash Tuesday. At the finish he was exhausted.

Bill was just 40 feet from the boiler room when he made the horrifying discovery that 6,000 gallons of gasoline—instead of fuel oil—had just been pumped into the tanks of the $1,300,000 building's heating system.

At the locked boiler room door, Bill had to fumble through a dozen keys on a ring.

As he wrenched his way through the doorway, he saw no fire under the boiler. It had been switched off by an automatic heat control. Bill spun the intake valve to the "off" position.

The oil company said the mistake in shipment was made by a clerical worker—the first such error in the company's history.

Vanderson, mindful of the scores of people including a dozen babies in the building, hopes it's the last.

Ohio Plans Set For Giving Aid To Hungarians

Food and Clothing Needed; Placement Of Refugees Sought

COLUMBUS—The Church World Service Coordinating Committee of the Ohio Council of Churches has announced a three-fold program of aid for Hungarian refugees.

Goals of the program are increased food and clothing collection and distribution, and the placement of refugees in Ohio homes and jobs, according to Dr. W. Henry Shillington, executive secretary of the Council.

The committee, meeting at the Ohio Council's offices here, set up three clothing collection centers in Columbus, in addition to the 40 already in operation throughout Ohio. The Columbus centers are at North Broadway Methodist Church, Central Community Church and in a vacant building adjacent to the Ohio Council office at 145 N. Front St.

The Columbus centers will be operated in cooperation with the United Church Women of the Columbus Area Council of Churches.

In order to get assistance to the refugees as swiftly as possible, the committee urged groups or individual donors to follow these instructions:

Clothing—All types of new or immediately usable clothing is needed, especially warm winter clothing, including heavy practical shoes and galoshes (tied together in pairs). Blankets also are needed.

All clothing should be securely packed in heavy bags or cartons and well tied for immediate loading on pickup trucks. Apparel should be taken off hangers before packing. The packaged clothing should be delivered to any one of the collection centers.

Donors are asked, if possible, to weigh the packages and mail money to cover processing and distribution, directly to Church World Service, Nappanee, Ind. The usual rate is 8 cents a pound for this service. The funds should be designated "for Hungarian relief clothing."

Foods — Funds for purchasing food can be sent directly to the Ohio Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) office, 141 N. Front St., Columbus, designated for Hungarian relief foodstuffs. Checks should be made out to Ohio CROP.

Ohio CROP, in cooperation with the World Council of Churches, already sending U. S. government surplus and other foodstuffs to needy Hungarians, through church channels in Austria.

Refugee placement — Hungarian refugees already are arriving in the United States, under President Eisenhower's order to admit 5,000, and are being temporarily quartered at Camp Kilmer, N. J. Ohio soon will get its allotment. Homes and jobs are needed for them. Ohioans interested in helping place refugees are urged to work through their local churches and denominations, or to call the Rev. Clyde N. Rogers, chairman of the Governor's Committee on Refugee Relief, at the Ohio Council of Churches, Columbus.

People . . Places . . . and Things

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

How would you like to eat Thanksgiving with one of the pioneer families of Fayette County? All right, come with me.

We will forego that ticklish journey through the forest to a small clearing on a small eminence.

In the clearing is a two - room log house, the chimney made of timber with a heavy coating of clay inside, and the smell of wood smoke comes from it.

There is no doorknob, and no metal latch, so we rap on the door, and a booming voice says "come in!"

We pull the latch string, the door, made of split logs, swings open on its wooden hinges and we step inside the poorly lighted room. The appetizing fragrance of roast venison and turkey — wild turkey, if you please — greets us, together with warm handshakes and welcome on the part of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, who settled in Fayette County soon after 1800.

We walk across the rough puncheon floor and are soon seated at a table, made of split logs with wooden legs extending from augur holes in the split sections of logs.

We take seats on stools or benches which are similar to the table, only much smaller and lower.

Mr. Robinson sits at the head of the table, and we take seats at the side. The two children are on the opposite side, while the seat at the end of the table is reserved for Mrs. Robinson.

The steaming roast turkey and roast venison are served on wooden platters. We note that English China plates have been given to us, while the others eat from pewter plates, or wooden plates. Wooden forks and spoons are used, and one knife is passed along to cut the meat. There is no cover on the table.

The cooking is all done by the open fire, on which blazing logs furnished plenty of heat— on the one side.

Black iron pots, suspended over the fire, are used in cooking the meat, while corn pone was baked in a Dutch Oven, also brought over the mountains. Some treasured salt is used for seasoning from the small store kept in reserve for such occasions.

Potatoes, roasted with their jackets on, and turnips, also roasted, constitute most of the remainder of the Thanksgiving dinner. Sassafras tea is served in handleless China cups. Wild blackberry jam, sweetened with maple sugar, form the dessert.

Before we eat we bow our heads while Mr. Robinson offers a short, fervent prayer of thanksgiving, and blessing upon the food.

What a dinner! There was no indigestion in a single bite.

FORMER SWAMPLAND

When the basement rooms or cellars the buildings in the business area, as well as a large number of early - built homes in this city were excavated, much of the earth was used to fill in low ground in the area in and near the heart of the city.

One of these places where there was ample room for dumping the earth was the area for 100 to 200 yards north of Paint Creek, from Sycamore St. westward to where the creek turns northward and crosses W. Court St.

That area and some ground south of the creek where the D.T.&I. Railroad crosses, was at one time known as Buzzard's Swamp, by reason of the marshy condition of the ground and the fact that buzzards roosted in the trees growing in the area.

When the ground was excavated for the Farm Bureau Building between Fayette and Main Sts. a number of years ago, it was found that much of the area had been filled to a depth of many feet, and was at one time used as a city dump as well as for receiving surplus earth from excavations in the uptown area.

Looking over the site I picked up two hand blown bottles and an old, tall stone jug which had contained imported liquor, indicating the long period of time since the spot was used as a city dump.

FIRE THORN BUSH

I notice that the number of fine thorn bushes with their semi-evergreen leaves and clusters of bright red berries are on the increase in the city and county, and I predict that they will grow still more in favor as the years go by.

Like many of our flowers and shrubs, the beautiful fire thorn comes from Europe, and the first one in Washington C. H. as far as I know, appeared in comparatively recent years.

The first one I recall was on E. Temple St., and was an unusually large one. There is still one at 822 E. Temple, but the largest I have seen in the city is at 641 S. Fayette St., and appears on the Oak St. side of the property at that number.

Sunday afternoon two vases filled with fire thorn formed the decorations in St. Andrews Episcopal Church for an organ recital, and they were most attractive.

I believe many people who love the beautiful in shrubs have been overlooking a bet in not having fire thorn available for bouquets as well as for lawn adornment.

The botanical name of fire thorn is Pyracantha coccinea, so I will continue to call it fire thorn.

In Sierra Leone, a British protectorate in West Africa, the young natives prefer to become office clerks in the towns rather than go back into the interior to become tribal chiefs. This is the report of Dr. Kenneth L. Little, University of California anthropologist

$30 Million Left by Field

NEW YORK (AP)—Marshall Field III, who died Nov. 8 at the age of 63, has bequeathed more than $30 million to the Field Foundation, Inc., for philanthropic purposes.

The terms of the will of the late publisher and philanthropist were announced Tuesday night by John F. Wharton, a lawyer and executor of the estate.

The residuary estate, the value of which was not stated, will go to Field's only son, Marshal Field Jr., who is also an executor of the estate. The son is editor and publisher of the Chicago Sun-Times.

Mrs. Ruth Pruyn Field, his widow, will receive $1,100,000 in cash and the family homes on Long Island, on Park Avenue in Manhattan and in South Carolina. Eleven grandchildren will get $100,000 each.

Field inherited $160 million from the real estate and department store fortune of his grandfather. His lawyer said Field gave "a substantial part" of his inheritance to his family and to charity during his lifetime.

Social Security Regulations Covering Disability Explained

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is the fifth of a series prepared by Leonard S. Garrard, field representative for the Social Security Administration in Fayette County, Garrard's home office is in Columbus.

By LEONARD S. GARRARD

Today I shall discuss disability in connection with old - age and survivors insurance.

Disability first came into the social security insurance picture in 1954. Until now, however, it was just a provision to protect the insurance rights of a worker who became totally disabled after a record of employment or self-employment covered by the law.

There was no provision to start paying benefits to him after he was determined to be disabled for any further gainful work.

The 1956 amendments to the Social Security Law change this. Beginning with July 1957, a disabled person, age 50 or over, may be eligible to start getting monthly social security insurance benefit payments.

It is no longer necessary for a completely disabled person to wait until he reaches age 65 to have his retirement payments start, nor is it necessary for an insured woman worker to wait until she becomes 62, if she is disabled and has reached her 50th birthday.

* * *

TO MEET the requirements of this new provision in the law, you must be so severely disabled that you are not able to engage in any substantial work. If your disability is just a temporary condition—one that will not keep you out of work permanently, or for a long and indefinite period of time— you are not eligible for benefit payments. Or if your disability is a kind which just makes it necessary for you to slow down in work or work part time, you cannot qualify for monthly benefit payments.

However, if your disability—either physical or mental — is long-continued, has lasted for at least six months, and there is little chance of recovery in the future, you may be eligible for monthly benefit payments.

These payments, which can start at age 50, are the same as the amount of the old - age insurance benefit you would be entitled to if you were 65.

* * *

BEAR THIS in mind: the first month for which cash disability payments can be made is July, 1957. However, there will be no benefit payments for your dependents until you become entitled to old - age benefit payments at age 65 (or, in the case of a woman getting disability payments, at any time between age 62 and 65).

Of course, receipt of disability benefits will not effect the payment of benefits to any of your eligible dependents in case you should die.

The work requirements for disability insurance payments at age 50, are: social security credit for five years of work in the 10 years before the established beginning date of your disability, and 1½ years of work in the three years before that date.

Active military service at any time after September 15, 1940, and work in the railroad industry after 1936 can count toward the work requirements for disability insurance payments under certain conditions.

However, if you are receiving another federal disability benefit or a state or federal workmen's compensation benefit for any month, the amount of your disability insurance benefit will be reduced by the amount of the other benefit for that month.

If you apply for disability insurance benefits, you will be referred to a State vocational rehabilitation agency which will consider you for services which may help you return to gainful work. Disability insurance payments will be withheld from you if you refuse without good cause to accept rehabilitation services that may be offered to you by your State agency.

* * *

IF YOU ARE now age 50 or over, have been in employment or self - employment covered by social security long enough to meet the above stated requirements, are now disabled but have never applied for the "disability freeze" of your earnings record, you should get in touch with your social security office right away.

If you have already had your earnings record "frozen," there is no hurry about applying for the benefits payable at age 50. The earliest that applications for disability cash payments could be accepted was October 1956; the first month for which payments can be made is July 1957. You have until Dec. 31, 1957, to make your application without losing any of the payments.

From what I have said, it is apparent that disability insurance has now become a part of the old-age and survivors insurance program.

Under the amended law, disability benefits are payable also to children who became disabled before their 18th birthday. In my next article, I shall explain this important amendment to the social security law.

Christmas Due Early for Some Stockholders

Year-End and Extra Dividends To Bring Merry Flow of Cash

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Christmas is coming early for some lucky stockholders.

A cheery flow of year end and extra dividend payments has started from the board rooms where directors of a sizable number of corporations are tallying up the year's business and the prospects for 1957.

The tide is expected to increase after Thanksgiving.

Many directors like to wait until they have a good idea of the entire year's record before handing out largesse to the shareowners—and some boards wait until January.

Many boards are finding plenty for which to be thankful. In just three days directors have declared dividends on 189 issues of stocks.

Ten voted year end payments and 16 voted extra dividends. In 11 other cases, without mentioning the approaching Yule season, they increased the payment above that previously paid. Holders of five other stock issues got special dividends. And one corporation resumed quarterly dividend payments on common stock after a lapse of 25 years.

Not all stockholders are as happy. Two companies reduced their dividends, in line with the pinch on their profits this year for one cause or another. And one big company sending out year end dividend checks isn't making them as fat this year as last.

The Commerce Department reports that in the first 10 months of the year cash dividend payments by American corporations came to 8¾ billion dollars, which is about one billion more than was paid in the same period in 1955, or an increase of 13 per cent.

It has also been a good year for stock splits, which most stockholders find pleasant, and for stock dividends, nine of the latter having been declared in the last three days.

While the dividend payments have been rising, stock prices as measured by The Associated Press index of 60 stocks, are today are a trifle below where they were when the year started. This means, in so far as the index measures the market, that yields have risen a little. When stock prices were soaring faster than dividends were rising, the yields were dropping.

Shop Early and Mail Early, WCH Postmaster's Advice

Postmaster Clark Wickensimer urges Washington C. H. residents to shop early and mail early this Christmas season to facilitate the processing of the largest Christmas mailing in the history of the local post office.

To put off mailing Christmas cards and parcels until the last moment results in an extra burden being placed on the postal employees and on the postal facilities of the office, Wickensimer pointed out.

Every local facility will be pressed into maximum service so that again this year, as in the past, the Washington C. H. post office will be cleared, if possible, of all Christmas mail by Christmas.

"There are still some people who retain the mistaken idea that a gift or card arriving on Christmas Eve has a special significance," Sickensimer said. "It is the thought behind the gift or card, not the time of arrival which is the important consideration."

"By following the simple suggestions of mailing early, wrapping carefully and addressing plainly, the citizens of Washington C. H. will be assured of the safe and timely arrival of their Christmas mail," Wickensimer added.

Social Security Regulations Covering Disability Explained

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is the fifth of a series prepared by Leonard S. Garrard, field representative for the Social Security Administration in Fayette County, Garrard's home office is in Columbus.

By LEONARD S. GARRARD

Today I shall discuss disability in connection with old - age and survivors insurance.

Disability first came into the social security insurance picture in 1954. Until now, however, it was just a provision to protect the insurance rights of a worker who became totally disabled after a record of employment or self-employment covered by the law.

There was no provision to start paying benefits to him after he was determined to be disabled for any further gainful work.

The 1956 amendments to the Social Security Law change this. Beginning with July 1957, a disabled person, age 50 or over, may be eligible to start getting monthly social security insurance benefit payments.

It is no longer necessary for a completely disabled person to wait until he reaches age 65 to have his retirement payments start, nor is it necessary for an insured woman worker to wait until she becomes 62, if she is disabled and has reached her 50th birthday.

* * *

TO MEET the requirements of this new provision in the law, you must be so severely disabled that you are not able to engage in any substantial work. If your disability is just a temporary condition—one that will not keep you out of work permanently, or for a long and indefinite period of time— you are not eligible for benefit payments. Or if your disability is a kind which just makes it necessary for you to slow down in work or work part time, you cannot qualify for monthly benefit payments.

However, if your disability—either physical or mental — is long-continued, has lasted for at least six months, and there is little chance of recovery in the future, you may be eligible for monthly benefit payments.

These payments, which can start at age 50, are the same as the amount of the old - age insurance benefit you would be entitled to if you were 65.

* * *

BEAR THIS in mind: the first month for which cash disability payments can be made is July, 1957. However, there will be no benefit payments for your dependents until you become entitled to old - age benefit payments at age 65 (or, in the case of a woman getting disability payments, at any time between age 62 and 65).

Of course, receipt of disability benefits will not effect the payment of benefits to any of your eligible dependents in case you should die.

The work requirements for disability insurance payments at age 50, are: social security credit for five years of work in the 10 years before the established beginning date of your disability, and 1½ years of work in the three years before that date.

Active military service at any time after September 15, 1940, and work in the railroad industry after 1936 can count toward the work requirements for disability insurance payments under certain conditions.

However, if you are receiving another federal disability benefit or a state or federal workmen's compensation benefit for any month, the amount of your disability insurance benefit will be reduced by the amount of the other benefit for that month.

If you apply for disability insurance benefits, you will be referred to a State vocational rehabilitation agency which will consider you for services which may help you return to gainful work. Disability insurance payments will be withheld from you if you refuse without good cause to accept rehabilitation services that may be offered to you by your State agency.

* * *

North-South Turnpike Idea Seen Shattered by Costs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's dream of a 516 million dollar "Big Y" turnpike linking Cincinnati with northeastern Ohio and Toledo has been shattered by the realities of 1956 toll road financing.

But the hopes of highway planners of modernizing travel among those areas may be realized through roads built to freeway standards by the state highway department over a period of years.

Just how many years is not known now. That depends as did North-South Turnpike hopes, on financing.

While the Ohio Turnpike Commission sought and failed to get private financing, the highway department will have to ask the state Legislature for money to build most of the roads that would cover the route selected for the North-South Turnpike

During the last few years the highway department and the Ohio Highway Construction Council, which schedules improvements to major Ohio thoroughfares, have worked on the assumption the North-South Turnpike would be built.

They delayed work on projects along the turnpike "line" because the planned superroad would make them unnecessary. But they had to change their thinking when the turnpike became as dead as the dodo.

Financial men decided revenue of the proposed turnpike would not be large enough to provide a safe operating margin, although they agreed the turnpike would pay for itself.

Engineering and traffic and revenue reports were gone over in an effort to salvage the turnpike. There even was one proposal that the state build part of the system as a free road while the turnpike commission build as toll road that part yielding the greatest traffic and revenue.

Finally the highway department announced plans to build as free roads those sections of the turnpike needed the most and to get to the others later on — if funds are available.

Only yesterday the federal bureau of public roads announced it would pay 90 per cent of the cost of preparing construction plans for the section of the road from the Cleveland area to the Pennsylvania line. There it will join the Pennsylvania extension of the New York Thruway.

Previously the federal government agreed to share in cost of construction plans for the southern section from Cincinnati to Dayton.

It will be four or five years before these sections are done, longer than it would take to build a turnpike, could one be financed. It will take a year just to prepare the plans for the section between Ohio 306 in northern Lake County to Ohio 90 in northern Ashtabula County.

While traffic interchanges would be 30 to 35 miles apart on a turnpike, they will be closer together on the free roads. It is planned to build the new roads in five mile sections. Work will be under way on both sections of the northern road at the same time.

Next year the highway department plans to take bids on building a new Ohio 69 between Dayton and U.S. 40. A section of U.S. 40 beginning at Springfield and running 12 miles west now is under contract, and the department will take bids next month and next year on projects to improve 15 miles of U.S. 40 west of there.

Plans are less definite for projects between Columbus and Cleveland, but if money is available the department hopes to build in the next six years new roads that will follow Ohio 3 to Sunbury, Ohio 61 to Mt. Gilead and U.S. 42 to Cleveland. The roads would bypass Mt. Gilead, Mansfield, Ashland and Medina, taking in general the route of the proposed north-south turnpike.

The department will attempt to improve much of U.S. 25 to improve traffic conditions between southwestern Ohio and Toledo. They will substitute for the "Toledo leg" of the north-south turnpike. Several of the projects have been fitted into the over-all highway improvement program.

Industry Seen Near Record On Production for 1956

CLEVELAND (AP)—Industry is on the verge of setting a production record and continued good business seems assured for 1957, "Steel" magaine said today.

"Backlogs of manufacturing industries are at an all-time high and new orders continue to run ahead of production by a significant amount," the metalworking authority said. "To support this higher level of activity, manufacturers have started adding to inventories."

The magaine said its industrial production index is just two points shy of its all-time high of 164 set last December. The index is based on steel and electric power output, freight car loadings and automobile assemblies.

Steelmaking is holding steady while electric power output and automobile production are continuing to strengthen, the publication said.

"Freight car loadings are following a seasonal decline," it added. "With the auto industry on the way to solving its production and supply problems, the increases should overbalance the decrease to set a record."

"Steel" said stable labor relations are in prospect because "the next big contract opening doesn't come until 1958, when the auto pacts expire." New contract talks in the steel industry are not scheduled until 1959.

The magaine said pressure continues to build up for steel price increases. Its price composite on finished steel stood at $137.66 a net ton last week, a rise of 18 cents. The composite on steelmaking scrap hit a record $61.50 a gross ton, a jump of $2.33. The previous record was $59.67 set in the week of Sept. 19.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department has announced that effective Jan. 2 the minimum fee for insurance on parcel post packages will be 10 cents.

The new 10 cent minimum will cover loss or damage up to $10.

Parents Today Prove Problem

Famed Cleric's Wife Says Youth Confused

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Parents are problems in the young people's world of today, says Ruth Stafford Peale, wife and partner of the famous Protestant minister Norman Vincent Peale.

"One third of all the mail we receive," says she, "is from young people between the ages of 11 and 20, asking in various ways, 'What are we going to do about our parents?' "

Mrs. Peale, a charming, youthful-looking woman, modern to her fingertips, speaks with authority as the mother of two daughters and a son, and as co-author with her husband of a regular magazine feature inviting readers to discuss their problems.

"There's no doubt that a great many of today's young people are troubled and confused," she says. "The problems of almost all who write to us boil down to one complaint—'Our parents don't understand us.'

"Sometimes they feel the household is too strict, sometimes that parents are too busy or indifferent. Some say there is too stern a religious attitude in the home, others says there isn't enough attention to religion.

"From observation I have found that a great many of today's problems with the younger generation stem from the fact that parents think if they provide a good home and good schools for their children, the youngsters should feel secure. There is too much stress on material things."

North-South Turnpike Idea Seen Shattered by Costs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's dream of a 516 million dollar "Big Y" turnpike linking Cincinnati with northeastern Ohio and Toledo has been shattered by the realities of 1956 toll road financing.

But the hopes of highway planners of modernizing travel among those areas may be realized through roads built to freeway standards by the state highway department over a period of years.

Just how many years is not known now. That depends as did North-South Turnpike hopes, on financing.

While the Ohio Turnpike Commission sought and failed to get private financing, the highway department will have to ask the state Legislature for money to build most of the roads that would cover the route selected for the North-South Turnpike.

During the last few years the highway department and the Ohio Highway Construction Council, which schedules improvements to major Ohio thoroughfares, have worked on the assumption the North-South Turnpike would be built.

They delayed work on projects along the turnpike "line" because the planned superroad would make them unnecessary. But they had to change their thinking when the turnpike became as dead as the dodo.

Financial men decided revenue of the proposed turnpike would not be large enough to provide a safe operating margin, although they agreed the turnpike would pay for itself.

Engineering and traffic and revenue reports were gone over in an effort to salvage the turnpike. There even was one proposal that the state build part of the system as a free road while the turnpike commission build as toll road that part yielding the greatest traffic and revenue.

Finally the highway department announced plans to build as free roads those sections of the turnpike needed the most and to get to the others later on — if funds are available.

Only yesterday the federal bureau of public roads announced it would pay 90 per cent of the cost of preparing construction plans for the section of the road from the Cleveland area to the Pennsylvania line. There it will join the Pennsylvania extension of the New York Thruway.

Previously the federal government agreed to share in cost of construction plans for the southern section from Cincinnati to Dayton.

It will be four or five years before these sections are done, longer than it would take to build a turnpike, could one be financed. It will take a year just to prepare the plans for the section between Ohio 306 in northern Lake County to Ohio 90 in northern Ashtabula County.

While traffic interchanges would be 30 to 35 miles apart on a turnpike, they will be closer together on the free roads. It is planned to build the new roads in five mile sections. Work will be under way on both sections of the northern road at the same time.

Next year the highway department plans to take bids on building a new Ohio 69 between Dayton and U.S. 40. A section of U.S. 40 beginning at Springfield and running 12 miles west now is under contract, and the department will take bids next month and next year on projects to improve 15 miles of U.S. 40 west of there.

Plans are less definite for projects between Columbus and Cleveland, but if money is available the department hopes to build in the next six years new roads that will follow Ohio 3 to Sunbury, Ohio 61 to Mt. Gilead and U.S. 42 to Cleveland. The roads would bypass Mt. Gilead, Mansfield, Ashland and Medina, taking in general the route of the proposed north-south turnpike.

The department will attempt to improve much of U.S. 25 to improve traffic conditions between southwestern Ohio and Toledo. They will substitute for the "Toledo leg" of the north-south turnpike. Several of the projects have been fitted into the over-all highway improvement program.

Industry Seen Near Record On Production for 1956

CLEVELAND (AP)—Industry is on the verge of setting a production record and continued good business seems assured for 1957, "Steel" magaine said today.

"Backlogs of manufacturing industries are at an all-time high and new orders continue to run ahead of production by a significant amount," the metalworking authority said. "To support this higher level of activity, manufacturers have started adding to inventories."

The magaine said its industrial production index is just two points shy of its all-time high of 164 set last December. The index is based on steel and electric power output, freight car loadings and automobile assemblies.

Steelmaking is holding steady while electric power output and automobile production are continuing to strengthen, the publication said.

"Freight car loadings are following a seasonal decline," it added. "With the auto industry on the way to solving its production and supply problems, the increases should overbalance the decrease to set a record."

"Steel" said stable labor relations are in prospect because "the next big contract opening doesn't come until 1958, when the auto pacts expire." New contract talks in the steel industry are not scheduled until 1959.

The magaine said pressure continues to build up for steel price increases. Its price composite on finished steel stood at $137.66 a net ton last week, a rise of 18 cents. The composite on steelmaking scrap hit a record $61.50 a gross ton, a jump of $2.33. The previous record was $59.67 set in the week of Sept. 19.

Parents Today Prove Problem

Famed Cleric's Wife Says Youth Confused

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Parents are problems in the young people's world of today, says Ruth Stafford Peale, wife and partner of the famous Protestant minister Norman Vincent Peale.

"One third of all the mail we receive," says she, "is from young people between the ages of 11 and 20, asking in various ways, 'What are we going to do about our parents?' "

Mrs. Peale, a charming, youthful-looking woman, modern to her fingertips, speaks with authority as the mother of two daughters and a son, and as co-author with her husband of a regular magazine feature inviting readers to discuss their problems.

"There's no doubt that a great many of today's young people are troubled and confused," she says. "The problems of almost all who write to us boil down to one complaint—'Our parents don't understand us.'

"Sometimes they feel the household is too strict, sometimes that parents are too busy or indifferent. Some say there is too stern a religious attitude in the home, others says there isn't enough attention to religion.

"From observation I have found that a great many of today's problems with the younger generation stem from the fact that parents think if they provide a good home and good schools for their children, the youngsters should feel secure. There is too much stress on material things."

That's the word of Joseph A. Fisher, president of the Reading Railroad, who says, "We have the basic elements now for the virtually automatic railroad." It would depend primarily on radio and remote control.

Big Business Puts On More Profit Weight

15 Firms So Far Show $100 Million Take After Paying Taxes

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the biggest boys are putting on more profit weight this year. And even when their corporate earnings are running behind a year ago, they aren't exactly wasting away.

Fifteen American nonfinancial corporations each have made more than 100 million dollars after taxes so far this year. That is one more than earned that much in the first nine months of 1955. In prewar 1939 only two of them made that much—the Bell Telephone system and General Motors.

Four of this year's 15 stayed above the 100 million mark although reporting earnings dropped below last year's.

When all of 1956's earnings after taxes are tallied, two more corporations may join the 15. Their nine months profits weren't too far below the mark.

The summer steel strike and the auto sales drop changed the standings of some of the top 15 money makers, and pushed another one out of the list.

Bethlehem Steel, which at this time last year had earned more than 100 million dollars, was just under that figure when the summer quarter ended.

Ford, which at this time last year ranked fourth among the giants of profit, is down to 11th place now after a 53 per cent tumble.

General Motors, despite a 30 per cent drop in earnings so far this year, still holds top rank, however, edging out Jersey Standard Oil by about the length of a wrap around bumper. The Detroit giant made 639½ million dollars, while the big oil company reports its nine month's net at 603 million to retain second place. It was 15 per cent rise for Jersey.

The Bell system holds onto third position with a gain of 14 per cent, reporting 550½ million dollars net income.

Du Pont was moved into Ford's old place at fourth, although the chemical firm's profits this year are 4 per cent lower than last year, when it was fifth.

U. S. Steel moved up from sixth to fifth, although earnings were off 9 per cent, while the Texas Co. went from seventh to sixth with a 9 per cent increase in profits from its oil activities. Gulf Oil rose even faster, from eleventh to seventh place on a 42 per cent jump.

Du Pont, big steel, Texas and Gulf were all in the 200 million to 300 million bracket.

Eighth, ninth and tenth positions didn't change, being held by California Standard Oil, Socony Mobil and General Electric, respectively — each better than 150 million dollars.

Kennecott Copper jumped from 16th to 12th this year—from 82 million dollars profit in the first nine months of 1955 to 116 million this time, a gain of 42 per cent.

Indiana Standard Oil retained 13th place despite gaining 12 per cent in earnings this year.

Ohio Farm Youths Give Views On Overseas Agriculture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jews in Israel—in Ed Pickering's opinion—are making "surprisingly" good farmers despite the handicap that many are new at the business.

Ed is in a position to know something about this: His background is farming—he grew up on one near Jamestown, Ohio, Greene County—and for the last four months he has been living on government-owned farms in Israel.

A 21-year-old, enthusiastic recent graduate of the College of Agriculture at Ohio State University, Ed is just back from a trip sponsored by the International Farm Youth Exchange.

He missed the war with Egypt entirely. "It started five days after we left the country."

As a consequence, Ed generally preferred to talk about Israeli farming rather than politics and war. On the subject of farming, he has some rather decided views.

In the first place, he told an interviewer during a Washington stopover the other day, running a farm in Israel is vastly different from what it is in Ohio.

Back home his father, Carl E. Pickering, works a diversified farm of 138 acres. In Israel, young Pickering was living on farms similar to collective farms in the Soviet Union.

"Everybody eats together," he recalled. "The children live in separate housing with nurses instead of their families. The school children actually run their schools, telling their teachers what they want to learn.

"And on the farm, everyone has a separate job. One man will be in charge of tractors, another will be in charge of spraying the vineyards.

"Women are completely equal to men. There is no pay at all. Everyone is given the same clothing, the same food.

But despite all these differences from anything he had known, Ed said, he believes Israeli farming compares favorably with Ohio farming.

The outstanding difference, he said, is that the Jews have to use a lot more manpower.

Asked whether he thinks the government farms are working well, he replied: "I think it is a good answer to their problems. Our problems are different from theirs."

Young Pickering was interviewed during a conference for a number of young 4-H Club people who have just returned from trips to foreign lands.

Sitting next to him during the interview was a young farmer named Ray Focht of Waynesfield, Auglaize County, Ohio.

Focht toured Iran, where he said farming is on a sharecropping basis with the land owned by absentee landlords.

Other young farming people from Ohio who have also returned from surveys of foreign agriculture are:

Charles W. Brown, RFD 2, Circleville, who visited Turkey; Mary Jane Denison, RFD 2, Glenford who went to Finland; Hazel V. Eckart, 1172 Cleveland-Massillon Road, Copley, just back from France; Harold L. Merkle, RFD 4, Wren who visited Switzerland, and Paul H. Miller, RFD 2, Sunbury, who went to Iraq.

New Idle Claims Showing Decline

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports that new claims dropped from 8,695 for the week ended Nov. 10 to 7,593 for the week ended Nov. 17.

Continuing claims increased from 31,517 in the week ended Nov. 10 to 34,033 for the week ended Nov. 17, the bureau reported.

The average weekly new claims for November of 1955 was 9,355, while continuing claims for the month averaged 28,862 each week.

The continuing claims total does not include those persons who have received maximum payments and still may be unemployed.

Legal Opinion Backs 90-5-5 Highway Financing System

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Attorney General's opinion has cleared the way for the state to share the cost of building major thoroughfares inside cities.

The opinion, to Gov. Frank J. Lausche, in effect approved use of 90 per cent federal funds and 5 per cent local funds, plus the cost of plans, with the state paying the rest.

Known as the 90-5-5 construction formula approved by the state highway director, it clashed with State Highway Construction Council insistence on a 90-10 formula without state participation.

The ruling by Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill said that once the council approved projects, that body had little if any further say about them. The opinion held that state expenditures from the Highway Construction and Bond Retirement Fund were subject to negotiation by the highway director.

"Nowhere in the statute relating to the Highway Construction Council," O'Neill said, "do I find any provision for a determination, or the approval of a determination, by the council of a division of costs as between (1) the state and (2) the federal government and local subdivisions of the state.

"The director of highways, of course, is given authority in clear terms to negotiate agreements as to such cost division on behalf of the state with such other participating agencies."

The opinion added that council lacks authority to interfere with plans for greater federal participation in projects than planned when the council approved them.

Concerning council approval of plans that include cost estimates, the opinion held that "it is nevertheless the project itself that is approved, rather than the expenditure of funds in the amounts thus estimated."

Final approval of all such projects rests with the general assembly, which previously authorized this year's program.

The opinion said that where any final cost estimate "is so unreasonably in excess of such preliminary cost estimate that there is no identity between the project, as originally recommended, and that for which the final estimate is made, the award of a contract, therefore, by the director of highways is not authorized by law."

Texas Elevator Rocked by Blast

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—An explosion—visible for 50 miles—blasted apart the top of a 120-foot grain elevator at the Ralston-Purina Co. Tuesday night. Two employes were burned critically.

Fire engulfed the million dollar plant and raged more than four hours. No official estimate of the damage had been made but it appeared most of the plant was destroyed.

Weldon Street, plant manager, said he did not know the cause.

School Girl Allowed Home Every Evening

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—From now on, 11-year-old Frances Ferguson can go to her home on Rattlesnake Island every night after school.

The state board of education made that possible Tuesday by approval of an expenditure of $6 per school day to have Frances flown back and forth to her fifth-grade classes at Put-in-Bay.

Until today, the girl had been rooming in Put-in-Bay Monday through Friday.

She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ferguson, are the only year-round residents of the island in Lake Erie. Ferguson is a caretaker employed by several people who own the island and have summer homes there.

Ferguson took the job last summer. The man who held it before him had three sons and the state had readily agreed that $6 a day was a fair price to pay for the school transportation of three pupils.

But this year, with only one child on the island, the state education officials hesitated at the cost. While they considered it, Frances spent lonely nights away from her parents.

Under Ohio law, the state must either provide schools within the reach of children or pay for their transportation elsewhere.

We are free to choose our own work.

We are free to grow, to create, to achieve . . .

These freedoms are the strength of America. They are the priceless blessings enjoyed by every American . . . for them on this Thanksgiving Day . . . in our Churches and in our family . .

Legal Opinion Backs 90-5-5 Highway Financing System

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Attorney General's opinion has cleared the way for the state to share the cost of building major thoroughfares inside cities.

The opinion, to Gov. Frank J. Lausche, in effect approved use of 90 per cent federal funds and 5 per cent local funds, plus the cost of plans, with the state paying the rest.

Known as the 90-5-5 construction formula approved by the state highway director, it clashed with State Highway Construction Council insistence on a 90-10 formula without state participation.

The ruling by Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill said that once the council approved projects, that body had little if any further say about them. The opinion held that state expenditures from the Highway Construction and Bond Retirement Fund were subject to negotiation by the highway director.

"Nowhere in the statute relating to the Highway Construction Council," O'Neill said, "do I find any provision for a determination, or the approval of a determination, by the council of a division of costs as between (1) the state and (2) the federal government and local subdivisions of the state.

"The director of highways, of course, is given authority in clear terms to negotiate agreements as to such cost division on behalf of the state with such other participating agencies."

The opinion added that council lacks authority to interfere with plans for greater federal participation in projects than planned when the council approved them.

Concerning council approval of plans that include cost estimates, the opinion held that "it is nevertheless the project itself that is approved, rather than the expenditure of funds in the amounts thus estimated."

Final approval of all such projects rests with the general assembly, which previously authorized this year's program.

The opinion said that where any final cost estimate "is so unreasonably in excess of such preliminary cost estimate that there is no identity between the project, as originally recommended, and that for which the final estimate is made, the award of a contract, therefore, by the director of highways is not authorized by law."

Texas Elevator Rocked by Blast

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—An explosion—visible for 50 miles—blasted apart the top of a 120-foot grain elevator at the Ralston-Purina Co. Tuesday night. Two employes were burned critically.

Fire engulfed the million dollar plant and raged more than four hours. No official estimate of the damage had been made but it appeared most of the plant was destroyed.

Weldon Street, plant manager, said he did not know the cause.

School Girl Allowed Home Every Evening

The state board of education made that possible Tuesday by approval of an expenditure of $6 per school day to have Frances flown back and forth to her fifth-grade classes at Put-in-Bay.

Until today, the girl had been rooming in Put-in-Bay Monday through Friday.

She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ferguson, are the only year-round residents of the island in Lake Erie. Ferguson is a caretaker employed by several people who own the island and have summer homes there.

Ferguson took the job last summer. The man who held it before him had three sons and the state had readily agreed that $6 a day was a fair price to pay for the school transportation of three pupils.

But this year, with only one child on the island, the state education officials hesitated at the cost. While they considered it, Frances spent lonely nights away from her parents.

Under Ohio law, the state must either provide schools within the reach of children or pay for their transportation elsewhere.

Many Farm Youths To Miss Thanksgiving Dinner at Home

CHICAGO — Scores of farm youths will miss their Thanksgiving dinners at home this year in order to spend the holiday readying their animals for the forthcoming 57th International Live Stock Exposition, opening her Friday for an 8-day run through Dec. 1.

Based on early entries, exposition officials predict that last year's showing of more than 500 steers and hogs, shown by boys and girls from 12 states in the International Junior Live Stock Feeding Contest, will be exceeded. The exhibitors are 4-H and FFA members between 12 and 20 years old who have raised the animals as club projects.

All of the International steer classes will be judged this year by Dr. A. D. Weber, dean of the Kansas Agricultural College. His first judging will be of the hundreds of entries shown by these young showmen on the opening Saturday.

Clifford Breeden, herdsman of the agricultural college farm at Purdue University, will judge the youngster's swine entries. First and second prize winners in both competitions are automatically admitted to open class competition, in adult company, during the week that follows.

The International grand champion steer, most celebrated winner of the livestock show world, has been exhibited by junior owners 13 times in recent years—most recently at the International of a year ago when the award went to the Aberdeen-Angus entry of Nancy Turner, a Champaign, Ill., farm girl.

A national livestock judging contest for 4-H participants is scheduled as a pre-opening event of the exposition on Friday. State champion teams of 4-H boys or girls, trained in livestock judging, will compete here for national honors on the basis of their skill in judging classes of cattle, sheep, and swine.

A similar contest for college students, the 57th International Collegiate Livestock Judging Contest, will be held Saturday.

At the 1955 show, 44 state agricultural college teams took part in this contest in which 5,010 college students, many of them leaders in the industry today, have competed since the first contest in 1900 to date.

Vital Grid Tilts Dominate Today's Turkey Day Menu

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oregon State was in a position to clinch the Pacific Coast Conference championship and South Carolina could move closer to an Orange Bowl bid in traditional games that headed the Thanksgiving Day college football program today.

A victory for Oregon State over Oregon would give the Beavers the PCC title for the second time in the 41 year history of the league. State only is lacking the formality of a vote to assure its participation in the Pasadena Jan. 1 Rose Bowl.

The South Carolina — Wake Forest tilt is a pivotal one for the Gamecocks, who are seeking to get the Bowl nod over Clemson and Duke.

The Gamecocks, with a 4-2 record in Atlantic Coast Conference competition and 6-3 over-all, have the best total defense record in the league.

Wake Forest's Bill Barnes, one of the top contenders for the national rushing yardage crown, has a bruised shoulder. However, it is expected he will be in the starting lineup. Barnes has averaged 110 yards on the ground in nine games.

Penn, which has made a surprisingly good showing in the Ivy League, meets Cornell. A victory for the Quakers would clinch third place but they'll be up against a hungry Big Red which has yet to win.

The Penn-Cornell game will be televised nationally in the eastern sector while viewers in the west will be able to witness the Oregon State encounter.

Other holiday pairings include Virginia Tech vs. Virginia Military, Colgate at Brown, Miami (Ohio) at Cincinnati, William and Mary at Richmond, Maryland at North Carolina State, Washington and Lee at Washington (Mo.), Colorado A&M at Denver and Idaho at Montana.

In pro football, the Detroit Lions have a chance to move into first place in the Western Division of the NFL by beating the Green Bay Packers. The game will be televised at noon.

Jeff Tigers Defeat Bowersville, 83-70

It was an uphill battle for the Jeffersonville Tigers on their home court Wednesday night as they took on Bowersville. But the Jeffs, after trailing almost the entire game, pushed ahead with four minutes to go, and won 83-70.

Bowersville jumped out in front 15-3 early in the high - scoring melee, as they hit on their first six shots. With both teams breaking fast and the scoring evenly distributed, Bowersville retained the lead as the score began to mount. At the end of the first quarter they were ahead by 12 points. By halftime, their lead had been cut to four.

Bowersville relied mainly on layups and long set - shots as they held a slim lead throughout the third period and into the fourth.

IN THE FOURTH quarter, Si Sizemore, the Tigers high man for the evening, dropped in 10 of his 19 points, and help put the Jeffs out in front. With four men scoring 16 or better, Jeffersonville took the lead and held it, winning 83-70.

In the opener, the Tiger Reserves took their fourth straight victory without a loss as they crushed the Bowersville Reserves 43-22. Ronny Jordan, a 5-foot 5-inch guard, scored 16 points, mostly on long jump shots and Jim Cook added 10 markers.

Bear Back Rolling Toward Pro Mark

The latest NFL statistics disclose that Casares is averaging half a yard less than did Philadelphia's Steve Van Buren in 1949, when the latter set the seasonal record for ground gaining of 1,146.

Casares has totaled 761 yards in eight games, an average of slightly better than 95 yards a game. Van Buren averaged 95.5 yards in his record year. Hugh McElhenny of the San Francisco 49ers is runnerup to Casares in the ground department with 627 yards, followed by Ollie Matson of the Chicago Cards with 589.

Michigan State cross - country runner Henry Kennedy lowered the Penn State five-mile course record in 1956 by almost one minute. He was timed in 25:20.2 in a dual meet.

The University of North Dakota basketball teams were unbeaten in 1906-07, 1907-08, 1917-18 and 1919-20.

LOOK HERE, MR. KEFAUVER—— This may not be the biggest raccoon ever taken out of the woods, but he's certainly a handful for Marcus Evans, Route 5, who knocked him out of the top of a big oak tree in a woods two miles south of Yatesville. He weighed 22 1-4 pounds. Evans and his brother, Homer with their two blue tick hounds, trailed the raccoon nearly a mile across two corn fields and into the woods before he took refuge in the big tree. They brought him down with a shotgun. He was one of three the Evans brothers got that same night, and they plan to have him mounted. The pelts bring only around $3 apiece, but it's the sport the Evans brothers like. (Record-Herald photo)

New Rule Set To Determine Batting Titles

CHICAGO (AP) — Total appearances at the plate instead of official times at bat in the future will determine baseball batting championships.

A new rule under which a batting title will be determined on total appearances was adopted Monday by baseball's Playing Rules Committee.

The rule supercedes the old regulation requiring 400 official times at bat to qualify for a batting championship.

Had the new rule been in effect two years ago, Ted Williams of Boston, not Bob Avila of Cleveland, would have won the American League title.

Committee Chairman Jim Gallagher read the new rule:

"The individual batting champion shall be the player with the highest batting average, provided he is credited with as many or more total appearances at the plate in league championship games as the number of games scheduled for each club in his league that season, multiplied by 3.1."

"Total appearances at the plate shall include official times at bat, plus bases on balls, times hit by pitcher, sacrifice hits, sacrifice flies, and times awarded first base because of interference or obstruction."

In 1054, Williams finished with a .345 average in 386 official at bats. Avila had a .341 mark for 555 official at bats. However, Williams had 136 walks, 3 sacrifice flies and was hit by a pitched ball once. Under the new rule he would have had 526 appearances and the batting title.

Don Newcombe Named Most Valuable in NL

NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Don Newcombe, whose 27 victories made him the biggest Brooklyn winner in 32 years, was voted today the Most Valuable Player in the National League for 1956 by the Baseball Writers Assn.

The big right-hander edged out his mound mate Sal Maglie by a scant 40 points. Seven players received first-place nominations by 24 voting writers. Five accumulated more than 100 points.

Not since Hank Sauer nosed out Robin Roberts and Joe Black in a three-way battle for the 1952 award has there been such a close race.

The 30-year-old Newcombe, who lost only seven games all season and but two of his last 20 decisions, topped the list with 223 points. His subpar World Series performance (he was knocked out of the box in both starts) did not figure in the balloting.

Maglie, who won 13 games including a no-hitter while losing only five after joining the Dodgers in mid-May, was second with 183 points. Then came Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, 146, and Warren Spahn, 116. Junior Gilliam, another Dodger, rounded out the first five with 103 points.

In all, 32 players received recognition, 11 of them pitchers. Eight Dodgers were named. Only one rookie was honored in the voting. He is Frank Robinson, the Redlegs' slugging left fielder, who placed seventh with 79 points.

Ohio Deer Supply Said To Be Ample

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state division of wildlife says it has received indications of a high population of deer in Ohio this season.

A spikesman said Monday that an unuaual number of deer have been sighted in farm areas where usually the only game has been rabbit and pheasant.

Hunters using only bow and arrow have been eligible to kill either a buck or doe since Nov. 15, except in Adams and Scioto counties where only bucks could be taken. The regular deer season, when hunters may take deer with shotguns firing slugs, will extend from Dec. 12 to Dec. 15.

Lions Shooting Well; Fast Break's Clicking

By ARTHUR BERMAN

Right now the outlook for the WHS basketball varsity this season is not as good as it was a year ago.

But this doesn't mean that the Blue Lions cannot do as well, or even better, than the 15-3 record they racked up in '55-'56.

However, they are going to have to play unusually aggressive ball to rack up successful season.

Coach Herb Russell plans to rely on eight men as the nucleus of the squad. They are Jim McWilliams, center; Larry Milstead, Bob Burris and Tom Swain, forwards; and Dick English, Ronny Knisley, Dan Miller and Billy Herman, guards. Bill Southworth, a 6-foot freshman has been looking good in practice, and may become a challenger for the pivot position.

Russell also expects to use Phil Johnson and Floyd Southward as substitutes at forward and guard.

* * *

RIGHT NOW there are 19 men on the squad. Five will be dropped before the Bexley game Nov. 30. Two more will go after three or four games, making a squad of 12.

Of the 19 trying out now, four are seniors, one is a freshman, and 14 are juniors. That means, of course, that the team will not have as much experience as some they will meet.

Meanwhile, the boys have been starting to click in practice. Their shooting is good, and their fast break is working well. But there is a problem under the boards. The team doesn't have the height for good rebounding. And without that, the best shooting in the world won't mean victory.

How effective the boys are in coming up with the ball, will be a decisive factor in whether they have a winning or losing season.

* * *

HERE IS the 1956-1957 basketball schedule:

16th Olympiad Given Start In Australia

MELBOURNE (AP) — The games of the 16th Olympiad opened today with all the pageantry and color associated with this great international sports event, ending the fears and tensions which had dogged these games almost from the start.

When the Duke of Edinburgh, standing under a bright Australian sun, pronounced the simple, traditional words: "I declare open the Olympic games of Melbourne celebrating the 16th Olympiad of the modern era," he brought an end to two years of anxiety.

From now until the Olympic flame burning atop a building in the main stadium is extinguished Dec. 8, the 4,514 athletes from 67 countries can concentrate on their efforts to win Olympic medals and—unofficially at least—points in the unrecognized struggle for national team honors.

Although a couple of basketball games followed the tremendous opening ceremony, the serious part of the two-week competition does not start until Friday when the first events in track and field, rowing, and fencing begin.

The United States is expected to dominate the track and field events but another close struggle with Russia is expected for unofficial team honors.

Cobb Dispersal Sale Opens at 10 Monday

The Edward Cobb dispersal sale will begin at 10 a. m. Monday. Up for bids will be the top racing and breeding stock, yearlings and weanlings now owned either outright by Cobb or in partnership.

The sale will be held at Fairgrounds where 112 trotters and pacers will be auctioned to the highest bidders.

Of the 112 head will be 22 racing prospects three years or older, 13 two-year olds, 21 yearlings, 38 broodmares, 17 weanlings and one stallion.

Heading the list will be the stallion, Jerry The First 4, 1:59.4 winner of $127,072. Classed as a young and proven sire, the son of Jerry M and Jane S. has the kind of breeding horsemen like. His family is traced back through Bert Abbe to The Abbe on his father's side and from Peter S. to Peter the Great on the dam side.

* * *

OUT OF racing stock will be: Honest Jerry 4, 2:00.2, Jerry Perkins 3, 2:01.2 Honest Jimmie 2, 2:04 and Plebe 4, 1:59.3. These are probably the best known to local harness racing fans. The first three mentioned have just completed a race meeting at Hollywood Park in California.

All yearlings to be sold will be hitched Sunday afternoon at 1 p. m. at the Fairgrounds and the public is invited to look them over.

Among the 38 broodmares to be sold will be some that are traced back to the famous Belle Mahone family. Cobb, in announcing the sale some time ago, stated that this is the first time the public has been offered an opportunity to purchase stock in the family of the noted broodmare.

Lew Wickersham, will be the auctioneer and will be assisted by Emerson Marting who will be venturing away from Hereford cattle auctions for the first time.

Lunch will be served on the grounds by the Bloomingburg Lions Club.

Vital Grid Tilts Dominate Today's Turkey Day Menu

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oregon State was in a position to clinch the Pacific Coast Conference championship and South Carolina could move closer to an Orange Bowl bid in traditional games that headed the Thanksgiving Day college football program today.

A victory for Oregon State over Oregon would give the Beavers the PCC title for the second time in the 41 year history of the league. State only is lacking the formality of a vote to assure its participation in the Pasadena Jan. 1 Rose Bowl.

The South Carolina — Wake Forest tilt is a pivotal one for the Gamecocks, who are seeking to get the Bowl nod over Clemson and Duke.

The Gamecocks, with a 4-2 record in Atlantic Coast Conference competition and 6-3 over-all, have the best total defense record in the league.

Wake Forest's Bill Barnes, one of the top contenders for the national rushing yardage crown, has a bruised shoulder. However, it is expected he will be in the starting lineup. Barnes has averaged 110 yards on the ground in nine games.

Penn, which has made a surprisingly good showing in the Ivy League, meets Cornell. A victory for the Quakers would clinch third place but they'll be up against a hungry Big Red which has yet to win.

The Penn-Cornell game will be televised nationally in the eastern sector while viewers in the west will be able to witness the Oregon-State encounter.

Other holiday pairings include Virginia Tech vs. Virginia Military, Colgate at Brown, Miami (Ohio) at Cincinnati, William and Mary at Richmond, Maryland at North Carolina State, Washington and Lee at Washington (Mo.), Colorado A&M at Denver and Idaho at Montana.

In pro football, the Detroit Lions have a chance to move into first place in the Western Division of the NFL by beating the Green Bay Packers. The game will be televised at noon.

Jeff Tigers Defeat Bowersville, 83-70

It was an uphill battle for the Jeffersonville Tigers on their home court Wednesday night as they took on Bowersville. But the Jeffs, after trailing almost the entire game, pushed ahead with four minutes to go, and won 83-70.

Bowersville jumped out in front 15-3 early in the high - scoring melee, as they hit on their first six shots. With both teams breaking fast and the scoring evenly distributed, Bowersville retained the lead as the score began to mount. At the end of the first quarter they were ahead by 12 points. By halftime, their lead had been cut to four.

Bowersville relied mainly on layups and long set - shots as they held a slim lead throughout the third period and into the fourth.

IN THE FOURTH quarter, Si Sizemore, the Tigers high man for the evening, dropped in 10 of his 19 points, and help put the Jeffs out in front. With four men scoring 16 or better, Jeffersonville took the lead and held it, winning 83-70.

In the opener, the Tiger Reserves took their fourth straight victory without a loss as they crushed the Bowersville Reserves 43-22. Ronny Jordan, a 5-foot 5-inch guard, scored 16 points, mostly on long jump shots and Jim Cook added 10 markers.

Bear Back Rolling Toward Pro Mark

The latest NFL statistics disclose that Casares is averaging half a yard less than did Philadelphia's Steve Van Buren in 1949, when the latter set the seasonal record for ground gaining of 1,146.

Casares has totaled 761 yards in eight games, an average of slightly better than 95 yards a game. Van Buren averaged 95.5 yards in his record year. Hugh McElhenny of the San Francisco 49ers is runnerup to Casares in the ground department with 627 yards, followed by Ollie Matson of the Chicago Cards with 589.

Michigan State cross - country runner Henry Kennedy lowered the Penn State five-mile course record in 1956 by almost one minute. He was timed in 25:20.2 in a dual meet.

The University of North Dakota basketball teams were unbeaten in 1906-07, 1907-08, 1917-18 and 1919-20.

LOOK HERE, MR. KEFAUVER—— This may not be the biggest raccoon ever taken out of the woods, but he's certainly a handful for Marcus Evans, Route 5, who knocked him out of the top of a big oak tree in a woods two miles south of Yatesville. He weighed 22 1-4 pounds. Evans and his brother, Homer with their two blue tick hounds, trailed the raccoon nearly a mile across two corn fields and into the woods before he took refuge in the big tree. They brought him down with a shotgun. He was one of three the Evans brothers got that same night, and they plan to have him mounted. The pelts bring only around $3 apiece, but it's the sport the Evans brothers like. (Record-Herald photo)

New Rule Set To Determine Batting Titles

CHICAGO (AP) — Total appearances at the plate instead of official times at bat in the future will determine baseball batting championships.

A new rule under which a batting title will be determined on total appearances was adopted Monday by baseball's Playing Rules Committee.

Had the new rule been in effect two years ago, Ted Williams of Boston, not Bob Avila of Cleveland, would have won the American League title.

Committee Chairman Jim Gallagher read the new rule:

"The individual batting champion shall be the player with the highest batting average, provided he is credited with as many or more total appearances at the plate in league championship games as the number of games scheduled for each club in his league that season, multiplied by 3.1."

"Total appearances at the plate shall include official times at bat, plus bases on balls, times hit by pitcher, sacrifice hits, sacrifice flies, and times awarded first base because of interference or obstruction."

In 1054, Williams finished with a .345 average in 386 official at bats. Avila had a .341 mark for 555 official at bats. However, Williams had 136 walks, 3 sacrifice flies and was hit by a pitched ball once. Under the new rule he would have had 526 appearances and the batting title.

Don Newcombe Named Most Valuable in NL

NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Don Newcombe, whose 27 victories made him the biggest Brooklyn winner in 32 years, was voted today the Most Valuable Player in the National League for 1956 by the Baseball Writers Assn.

The big right-hander edged out his mound mate Sal Maglie by a scant 40 points. Seven players received first-place nominations by 24 voting writers. Five accumulated more than 100 points.

Not since Hank Sauer nosed out Robin Roberts and Joe Black in a three-way battle for the 1952 award has there been such a close race.

The 30-year-old Newcombe, who lost only seven games all season and but two of his last 20 decisions, topped the list with 223 points. His subpar World Series performance (he was knocked out of the box in both starts) did not figure in the balloting.

Maglie, who won 13 games including a no-hitter while losing only five after joining the Dodgers in mid-May, was second with 183 points. Then came Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, 146, and Warren Spahn, 116. Junior Gilliam, another Dodger, rounded out the first five with 103 points.

In all, 32 players received recognition, 11 of them pitchers. Eight Dodgers were named. Only one rookie was honored in the voting. He is Frank Robinson, the Redlegs' slugging left fielder, who placed seventh with 79 points.

Ohio Deer Supply Said To Be Ample

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state division of wildlife says it has received indications of a high population of deer in Ohio this season.

A spikesman said Monday that an unuaual number of deer have been sighted in farm areas where usually the only game has been rabbit and pheasant.

Hunters using only bow and arrow have been eligible to kill either a buck or doe since Nov. 15, except in Adams and Scioto counties where only bucks could be taken. The regular deer season, when hunters may take deer with shotguns firing slugs, will extend from Dec. 12 to Dec. 15.

Lions Shooting Well; Fast Break's Clicking

By ARTHUR BERMAN

Right now the outlook for the WHS basketball varsity this season is not as good as it was a year ago.

But this doesn't mean that the Blue Lions cannot do as well, or even better, than the 15-3 record they racked up in '55-'56.

However, they are going to have to play unusually aggressive ball to rack up successful season.

Coach Herb Russell plans to rely on eight men as the nucleus of the squad. They are Jim McWilliams, center; Larry Milstead, Bob Burris and Tom Swain, forwards; and Dick English, Ronny Knisley, Dan Miller and Billy Herman, guards. Bill Southworth, a 6-foot freshman has been looking good in practice, and may become a challenger for the pivot position.

Russell also expects to use Phil Johnson and Floyd Southward as substitutes at forward and guard.

* * *

RIGHT NOW there are 19 men on the squad. Five will be dropped before the Bexley game Nov. 30. Two more will go after three or four games, making a squad of 12.

Of the 19 trying out now, four are seniors, one is a freshman, and 14 are juniors. That means, of course, that the team will not have as much experience as some they will meet.

Meanwhile, the boys have been starting to click in practice. Their shooting is good, and their fast break is working well. But there is a problem under the boards. The team doesn't have the height for good rebounding. And without that, the best shooting in the world won't mean victory.

How effective the boys are in coming up with the ball, will be a decisive factor in whether they have a winning or losing season.

16th Olympiad Given Start In Australia

MELBOURNE (AP) — The games of the 16th Olympiad opened today with all the pageantry and color associated with this great international sports event, ending the fears and tensions which had dogged these games almost from the start.

When the Duke of Edinburgh, standing under a bright Australian sun, pronounced the simple, traditional words: "I declare open the Olympic games of Melbourne celebrating the 16th Olympiad of the modern era," he brought an end to two years of anxiety.

From now until the Olympic flame burning atop a building in the main stadium is extinguished Dec. 8, the 4,514 athletes from 67 countries can concentrate on their efforts to win Olympic medals and—unofficially at least—points in the unrecognized struggle for national team honors.

Although a couple of basketball games followed the tremendous opening ceremony, the serious part of the two-week competition does not start until Friday when the first events in track and field, rowing, and fencing begin.

The United States is expected to dominate the track and field events but another close struggle with Russia is expected for unofficial team honors.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Nasser Vows To Maintain Independence

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser vowed yesterday he never will become the pawn of any power. He said Egypt is determined to maintain both political and ideological independence.

"I vow I will not become the stooge or satellite or pawn or hireling of anybody," Nasser said.

Egypt will remain free of all foreign ideologies "such as Marxism, fascism, racism, colonialism and atheism, all of which incidentally are European in origin," he wrote.

At the same time Nasser pledged himself to international cooperation and proposed expanding the scope of international law to meet the needs of 'the complex modern world."

Denying he is trying to create an Arab empire, Nasser said:

"The concept of Arab imperialism is foreign fiction or foreign propaganda."

He reiterated his government intends to improve the economic and social conditions of its people, but said the task is hindered "till certain highly inflammable problems are solved."

"The policy of Egypt is the policy of national independence," he explained. "Egypt and the Egyptians value this independence more than life itself. Just as Egypt is determined to have political independence, so also Egypt is determined to have and maintain ideological independence."

League of Women Voters Guest Speaker Describes Travels in Communist Lands

A first - hand account of the people behind the Communist Iron Curtain in Europe and the life they live was given to members of the Washington C. H. League of Women Voters at two meetings this week by Mrs. David Heusinkveld, Cincinnati, field secretary of the Ohio LWV.

The afternoon meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Paul S. Craig, the evening meeting at the home of Mrs. Walter Morrow. Mrs. John P. Case, LWV president, presided at both meetings.

Mrs. Heusinkveld was one of 50 men and women who toured the Communist-dominated countries last summer. The purpose of the tour, she said, was to relieve international tensions by letting the people see these little-known countries and relate their experiences after they return home.

In London, they were addressed by members of the British Parliament and were granted an interview with the "Red Dean" of Canterbury.

• • •

IN PARIS, Gen. Alfred Gruenther of NATO told them of the rearmament of Germany.

They found West Germany largely reconstructed with Marshall Plan money, she said, and new buildings and gardens are taking form on top of the rubble of war.

The group flew from East Berlin to Belgrade in the first Russian plane to make the trip since the war, she said.

They visited Marshal Tito in his home on the island of Pola. Although he said he did not speak English, Mrs. Heusinkveld said that when she said she was from Ohio, he replied "Ohio," evidence that he knew United States geography if not the language.

• • •

THROUGH an interpreter, she said, Marshal Tito told of his visit to Russia and explained why he will not join the Communist bloc. She said he told the group he thinks Germany should have been reunited before the rearmament of Germany and fears the United States will regret this was not done.

Mrs. Heusinkveld said Tito told the group he feels his chief accomplishments in Yugoslavia are the decentralization of industry and the increase of light industry to make consumer goods for his country.

When they went to Moscow, Mrs. Heusinkveld said, the United States ambassador advised them to give brief, direct answers to the Russians, with no apologies or evasions.

There were two classes of questioners, she said: Those interested and curious about Americans and those who were Communist agents.

Some of their questions, she said, were: "Are Americans for peace or are they war mongers?" "If they are for peace, why do they maintain military bases abroad?" "Why do you fingerprint foreign visitors to the United States?"

• • •

THE AVERAGE home in Moscow, she said, is a one - room apartment in which a whole family, perhaps three generations, lives together. There are no inside baths and the community water pump may be a block away, she added.

On the communal farm of 7,000 acres visited by the group there were 600 men and women workers and 300 children and aged people. Everything in Russia is owned by the government, she said, but the people are permitted a small plot of ground on which they may raise produce to sell for profit.

They are so interested in this profit, she added, that the government has to keep prodding them with propaganda to meet their government quotas. The reward is a fee ticket to visit the tombs of Lenin and Stalin.

Mrs. Heusinkveld described the Russian farm methods and machinery as primitive.

• • •

AT THE HOSPITAL the group visited, she said, most of the doctors are women paid about $100 a month and the surgeons men, who are paid about $1,000 a month.

Teachers, especially those in the field of science and engineering hold the most prestige, she said and added that artists, actors and authors are among the well - paid classes.

The group attended services in Roman Catholic, Russian Orthodox and Baptist churches and explained that there is now freedom of worship in Russia with one exception— there may be no sermon on moral issues because it might react against communism.

Children Find Real Meanings

Why Are They Thankful?

Many words have been written through the years about Thanksgiving Day.

But sometimes the true spirit of such a day is best seen through the eyes of children.

Mrs. Ruth Hopkins, who teaches the sixth grade at Eastside School, asked her students to write about the things for which they were most thankful.

The Record-Herald is reprinting four of these little essays which, in their refreshing simplicity, convey real sincerity and meaning.

Here they are:

"I should be thankful for my Father, Mother, and for the food we eat, and the house we live in. For the clothes I wear, the eyes I can see with, the hands I can use, and the legs I walk on. But there are a lot more things to be thankful for. Most of all, I can be thankful that I live in America."

SHARON SCHORR

"I am thinkful that I have a home and parents to take care of me. I am glad that I can worship as I please in any church. I am glad we are going to have a new school. I am thankful that the teachers will be there to help us. I am thankful for the books, toys, games, and most of all for God to guide us and teach us right from wrong."

LEROY RINEHART

"I am thankful to live in a free country, to worship the way we please, and to have freedom of speech. I am thankful to have a nice place to live, good food to eat, and warm clothing to wear. I am thankful that people will study to be teachers, to help others to have a good education. We have freedom to go where we please. Most of all, I want to thank God for making all of this possible."

LINDA SWORD

"I am thankful that we live in a free country, and that we may go to the church of our choice. I am also thankful we may go to the school we want and get a good education. I am thankful for the food I eat, and for my Mom and Dad. Most of all I am thankful for God who made all of this possible."
